Construction pact signed

Southern Illinois contractors and local unions representing four basic construction trades today urged promoting area development as they announced an agreement extending the expiration date of the unions' contracts by one year.

Representing area contractors in signing the agreement were the Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA) and the Southern Illinois Contractors Association (SICA) along with the Carpenters, Cement Masons, Iron Workers and Laborers Unions which represent 47 local unions and more than 7,800 construction workers.

Contracts for all the involved unions are now extended until July 1978, rather than July 31, 1977, as previously negotiated.

The extension agreement was heralded today by management and labor as a "major breakthrough in industrial relations."

Unions signatory to the pact are: Tri-County Carpenters District Council, East St. Louis Iron Workers Local 392, East St. Louis Cement Masons Local 90, Litchfield Cement Masons Local 330, Staunton Cement Masons Local 370, Centralia Cement Masons Local 667.

Twelve Counties Southwestern Illinois District Council of Laborers, Alton Laborers Local 218, Belleville Laborers Local 459, Collinsville Laborers Local 44, East St. Louis Laborers Local 100, Edwardsville Laborers Local 179.

Granite City Laborers Local 397, Mascoutah Laborers Local 742, O'Fallon Laborers Local 670 and Wood River Laborers Local 338.

With the stated purpose of promoting "industrial peace and continued efficiency of operation without interruption of the construction industry," the agreement calls for an across-the-board fifty-cent hourly increase for all the unions during the extension, with no changes in work rules—except by consent of both parties—prior to the expiration of the current contract.

The new hourly rates effective in 1977, including fringe benefits, will be: Tri-County Carpenters, $12.535 per hour; Cement Masons, $12.375; Iron Workers, $12.80; and Laborers, $11.05.

The wage increase represents an average increase of 4.25 per cent to the four trades signatory to the extension, and is well below the Illinois average of 7.1 per cent and national average of 5.5 per cent.

CARTER SUPPORTER ALL THE WAY. Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael J. Howlett munches peanuts during Monday's luncheon appearance at the Long Lake Fire Hall, commenting that "I'm glad he doesn't grow asparagus." His reference was to Presidential Candidate Jimmy Carter, whose business is growing peanuts on a Georgia farm. A neighbor at the speaker's table suggested that asparagus "is good," and Howlett replied, "Yes, but we'd have to eat it every day."

Robinson and Hylla named to new board

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer yesterday chose Russell Robinson, 2224 Emert Ave., and Leonard A. Hylla, 1706 Market St., Madison, as his appointees to the Metro-East Levee and Sanitary District, which will replace the East Side Levee and Sanitary District on Dec. 5.

A new state law will convert the levee district governing body from a board of five elected trustees to a group of five appointed members on Dec. 5. It also makes other changes in the structure of the district.

The law stipulates that the chairman of the St. Clair County Board and the head of the Madison County Board make the appointments, with the county portion having the highest assessed valuation having three appointed members and the lower valuation county having two appointments.

Since the St. Clair County part of the levee district has a slight edge in assessed valuation over the Madison County portion, St. Clair County Board Chairman Victor Canty will appoint three. The law provides that both parties will be represented in the board delegation from each county.

Hagnauer selected Robinson as a Democrat for a four-year term and Hylla as a Republican for a two-year board term.

Hagnauer noted Hylla has been a Republican since 1968 and voted Republican in this year's primary election, even though he is employed by Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett and Howlett is on the Democratic ballot, winning

United drive passes 79% of the goal

The Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign to finance part of member agencies' operating costs in the 1977 calendar year reached $178,586 yesterday—79.7 per cent of the $475,000 goal.

The final scheduled report luncheon is set for next Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Bill H. Terrell, general chairman of the drive, commented, "If the rest of the accounts are solicited this week, it is possible to meet the goal by the final report meeting."

He noted that many potential givers remain to be contacted.

Pledges by divisions total $130,316: industrial, $24,134; business, $18,154; civic, $9,320; construction, $6,311; professional, $3,785; commercial division II, $3,550; mail-telephone, $2,630; commercial division I and $385, Madison-Venice.

Contributions have amounted to $131,017, $173,527 and $71,042 at the three weekly campaign luncheons.

The "Dutch treat" gatherings are held at the Granite City Army Installation.

Al P. Steinhilber, acting United Way executive director, said reports indicate the Combined Federal Campaign will reach its goal. Part of the receipts from federal employees go to the local United Way.

A. O. Smith Corporation's Granite City plant and employees were praised for their participation in the drive.

Smith employees gifts rose 42 per cent to $31,250 and the corporate contribution climbed eight per cent to $13,500.

K-Mart store employees here also were applauded for their United Way support.

Alpine theme at Madison stores

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
A new "Alpine" look is becoming a reality in the city of Madison as construction of the new look has begun on the front of Sterling TV and Appliance Co., 420 Madison Ave., Madison, it was reported during a meeting of the Madison City Council Tuesday night.

In a letter to the Council read by City Clerk John M. Belicoff, Mayor Mike Saseyk who was out of the city, said:

"Within the past week our city has embarked on the beginning of its downtown redevelopment project. The Sterling TV and Appliance Co. has taken the initiative to become the first business in Madison to fix up its storefront in our city's central theme—'The Alpine Look.'"

"I know this will be a very worthwhile project and it will bring a lot more business to our city. I feel that we should compliment the Sterling TV and Appliance Co. for taking the initiative in this project," the mayor concluded.

At the request of the mayor, the council voted to waive the city building permit fee for any business that fixes up a storefront in the Alpine Look.

County raises

The Madison County Board voted Wednesday morning to increase the salaries of four county officials to be elected in November by $5,000 per year.

The board's action increases the annual salary of the county auditor, the recorder of deeds and the circuit clerk from $19,000 per year to $24,000 per year.

The salary of the county coroner also was increased from $17,000 to $22,000 per year. The salary is lower because the coroner holds a part-time job. The officials also receive fuel and other expense reimbursement while on duty.

The board also voted to increase the salaries of 14 department heads by about $100 per month.

The highest-paid department head is Lester Miller, superintendent of highways, who will receive $29,000 per year, up $4,000, plus $2,500 per year for expenses, a total of $31,500.

Matthew D. Melucci, administrative assistant to the board chairman, received an increase from $21,000 to $23,400; James Barton, supervisor of

$1,450,000 expansion

A $1,450,000 expansion of its present store at Madison Avenue and Namecki Road is under consideration by National Foods, Inc., the Granite City Council was informed at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The announcement was contained in a request that the short block of Iowa Street behind the present store be made available to two-way traffic, rather than one-way as it now is.

The letter, sent by Ernest A. Karandjoff, chairman and president of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, said: "National Foods, Inc., have asked us as trustee for the store property at Madison Avenue and Namecki Road if we would be interested in enlarging and remodeling the property."

"They indicate that they want to spend about $750,000 on a new building and approximately $700,000 for interior furnishings and remodeling of the existing store."

"As a pre-condition of negotiations they have requested that we explore the possibility of the short block of Iowa Street behind the store being made available for two-way traffic instead of one way. The rest of Iowa Street would remain one way as it is now."

"They tell us that many of their customers come from the Madison-Venice area and have difficulty in entering the parking lot from Namecki Road inasmuch as a left turn at Iowa is now prohibited. Two-way traffic on Iowa would permit a left turn from Namecki Road as well as access from St. Clair Avenue."

"We respectfully ask that this short section of Iowa be changed to two way traffic."

Karandjoff told the Press-Record that the $750,000 is estimated as the cost of an addition that would adjoin the present store building, while the $700,000 would be the estimated cost of remodeling and refurbishing the existing store.

He said that all traffic problems must be resolved before negotiations for the development are begun.

Gillhams numerous

(84th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)

In the early history of the Quad-Cities and Madison County, the largest family over a period of several generations was the Gillham family.

An 1876 historical assembly detailed facts about the family that had been written by Daniel B. Gillham.

The latter related that many of the family's descendants were identified with the early settlement of this part of Illinois during the "last year of the previous century, 1799, and the first years of the next century." Thomas Gillham, the ancestor of the family in America, was a native of Ireland.

He was married in Ireland and, with his wife and son, Charles, emigrated to America about the year 1730, first settling in Virginia.

Handbell Concert at Third Baptist

This Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Third Baptist Church, 2601 Grand Ave., will be having a special dedication service for their new handbells, according to the pastor Rev. Roy Johnson.

Through individual gifts, a three-octave set of Shulmerich Handbells were purchased in July. This is the only church in this area of Illinois that owns a full three octaves (37 bells).

Two handbell choirs have been organized. The Jubilee Singers (adults) and The Joyful Sound (youth). Rev. Johnson added:

The Jubilee Singers include Nancy Greer, Michele Young, Becky Soden, Joyce Richardson, Donna Milliken, Diana Hall, Colleen Fitzgerald, Steve Hall, Bonnie Nading, Steve Johnson and Nick Popelchak. They will be ringing the spiritual "Go Down, Moses," a traditional Welsh hymn "God, That Madest Earth and Heaven" and an arrangement of "Amazing Grace" by Jesse Newcomer that also employs the organ and congregation.

The Joyful Sound consisting of Marianne Young, Kathy Pendegress, Nancy Greer, Ginger Caeleton, Jodi Alexander, Lori Pendegress, Joyce Young and Brian Smith will be ringing "Come Christians, Join to Sing" and an unusual medley of three invitational hymns which will include narration, voices and organ.

Furnace faults cause 2 fires

Malfunctions in furnaces were responsible for two fires this week.

A defective furnace switch which caused the furnace to run continuously was believed responsible for a fire which caused about $50 damage at the home of Alan Young, 2616 Lincoln Ave. at 3:20 p.m. Monday. Soot and dust in the chimney ignited and most of the damage to the home was caused by smoke. Firemen were there 40 minutes.

Damage was estimated at $150 to the home of Thelma Martin, 2027 Edwards St. at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday as the owner was adjusting the furnace pilot light and flames engulfed the furnace. Mrs. Martin escaped injury. Firemen were there 20 minutes.

Firemen also extinguished a fire at the home of Ida Holder, 2213 Lee Ave., which caused $500 damage at 3:20 p.m. Tuesday.

A child playing with a cigarette lighter was believed to have accidentally set the couch on fire. The flames destroyed the couch and damaged the carpet and there was extensive smoke damage, firemen said. They were on the scene 30 minutes.

No mail on Monday in 'split' holiday

Monday will be another holiday under federal law, but it is expected to have little effect in the Quad-City area.

The holiday — Veteran's Day — is observed on two dates because Illinois disagreed with a federal law advancing the event two weeks from the formerly established date of Nov. 11. Illinois enacted legislation retaining the old date.

As a result all federal offices and agencies will mark Veterans' Day on Monday. Post offices will follow holiday schedules. There will be no mail delivery.

Otherwise business and official activity will continue unchanged. Schools will be open as will state and local offices. Banks and financial institutions also will operate Monday. Most of these will close Nov. 11 in observance of Veterans' Day.

Speaker on Bread for the World

Arthur Simon, executive director of Bread for the World, will be in the 22nd Congressional district for a series of appearances Tuesday, Oct. 26.

Bread for the World is a Christian citizens' movement on hunger and poverty. Local coordinating committee members include Mrs. Joyce Schrader, 5116 Maryville Road. BFW expresses its concern by contacting members of Congress and other government leaders regarding U.S. policy matters regarding hungry people.

At 9:30 a.m. next Tuesday, Simon will speak to a group of students at East St. Louis High School. From 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m., he will visit STUE for lunch and a discussion with faculty and students concerned about hunger and poverty.

In the evening, Simon will join BFW members and the public for a poverty meal, liturgy and program at St. Henry's Church in Belleville.

The poverty meal of bread, beans, rice and applesauce, simulating a "third world" meal, will begin at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 26.

The BFW has invited Congressman Melvin Price to participate in the dialogue.

For further information, Quad-Cityans may contact Fr. James Shortall at 692-3246.

Saving lives Rotary topic

Saving lives was the topic of discussion at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Granite City Rotary Club in the YMCA, as Steven T. Missey, emergency medical service coordinator at St. Elizabeth Hospital, presented the program.

Missey, who also is a Rotarian, demonstrated the Heimlich method for saving a life of a person choking.

Missey explained that a four-hour training course in connection with the Illinois Heart Association is available for groups of 10 or more over the age of 15, during which a person will be taught how to save the life of someone who has stopped breathing and has no pulse.

The training, according to Missey, should be given at one time. It could be used in drowning, suffocation or electrocution accidents.

Groups wishing the program to be presented may contact Missey at 876-2020, extension 411.

Rotary President Steve Bristol announced that general distribution of the book titled "Six Mile Road," an early history of the Granite City area, will begin next week.

The recent Rotary-Optimist Camelot auction raised slightly over $7,000 which the two service clubs will use for civic projects, it was reported.

Rotarian David Fielding was the program chairman.

Theft from garage

Numerous items were removed from the garage of Clara Harbig, 2153 Pontoon Road, she discovered at 6:05 p.m. Tuesday.

Known missing are a sundial, wheelbarrow, bell iron, BB gun, coal bucket, hatchet, stepladder, washboard, meat cleaver, coal lantern, two crow bars, a bag of lawn fertilizer, some jars and two bushels of elderberries.

Strong Althoff a big test for grid Steelers

Coach Tom Wyrostek's North High Steelers host Belleville Althoff's Crusaders on the gridiron at the Granite City Stadium (Fehling Road) at 7 p.m. Saturday. Both clubs have 5-1 records and are state playoff hopefuls.

GCIS North won five straight contests before losing to Bi-State Conference member St. Louis DeSmet last weekend.

Althoff, a member of Bi-State, opened its season with a 7-0 loss to powerful Belleville West and then proceeded to defeat Belleville East 21-14, Newton 14-9, East St. Louis Assumption 44-19, Christian Brothers College of St. Louis 14-3 and East St. Louis Lincoln 18-7.

Coach Glenn Schott's Crusaders have gained 1,308 yards rushing thus far and 296 yards in the air on aerials by quarterback Chris Burns, a 5-11, 160-pound junior.

Burns is one of 23 players who returned from last year's 4-4-1 team. Althoff's tied game was a 14-14 deadlock with GCIS North a year ago.

Thus far, four other juniors have headed the Crusader attack along with Burns.

Gary Turner, 5-11, 185, heads the list with five touchdowns and 715 yards rushing. John Barenkamp, 6-2, 185, has four TDs on 91 yards in pass receptions.

Andy Gleason, 5-10, 170, has two touchdowns and Tom Maul, 6-1, 196, has one TD.

Gleason rushed last year for more than 1,000 yards as a member of the sophomore squad.

Placement kicker Tom Lehman has proven himself valuable to Althoff as an extra-point earner. Lehman has put 14 points on the board with points following TDs, including six points in the Assumption contest.

GCIS North enters the game with 1,316 yards gained on the ground and 573 in the air on Quarterback Greg Corey aerials.

Senior Fred Clay heads the Steelers in scoring with seven TDs and a total of 670 yards rushing.

Complementing Clay on offense are Mike Sherman, Keith Atkins, Corey, Bruce Wright and others.

Missing from the defensive lineup for the contest will be Dale Feltneyer, who was injured in the DeSmet contest.

It was believed that the North player might have suffered fractures and a severe concussion, but tests this week revealed that the concussion was the principal injury. He was released from Firmin Desloge Hospital in St. Louis yesterday.

Central hustles to 3-2 victory

Coach Robert Kehoe's soccer Steelers were edged 3-2 Monday across the river by host Hazelwood Central High School.

Ranked sixth in the state of Missouri, Central scored in the opening half of play and then twice more early in the second half.

Now with a 12-5-2 record, GCIS North was held scoreless by the Missouri team in the first 35-minute half.

"We came alive in the second half," says Kehoe, "scoring two goals."

With 15 minutes left to play, Bob Batey, assisted by Eric Thornburg, put the Steelers on the scoreboard. And with two minutes remaining, Eric Painter scored unassisted.

Central dominated shots-on-goal 10-7 and executed the most corner-kicks, 9-3.

North committed the least fouls, 14-21. Goalie Mike Hill stopped six Central shots from entering the net.

16th Warrior soccer triumph

The Granite City High School South Warrior soccer team chalked up its 16th win Monday as it hosted Hazelwood East and defeated the Missourians 4-0.

The aggressive Warriors tried 28 shots compared to Hazelwood's two. South led 11-0 in corner kicks.

The teams were even with eight fouls each.

Goals saved were: South, one, and Hazelwood, nine.

Scoring for the Warriors were Rick Fernandez with two goals, and Gregg Feigl and Mark Goldsmith, one each.

South goalie Barry Briggs now has 12 shutouts to his credit.

The overall team record is 16 wins, one loss and one tie.

Feigl scored on an assist by Mike Voegelé after 4:34 of the first period. Fernandez on a penalty kick after 15:52 of the third period. Goldsmith assisted by Rick Becherer after 16:41 of the third quarter and Fernandez on another penalty kick with a minute and 28 seconds left in the game.

Meet Oct. 28 on park basketball

An organizational meeting of Granite City Park District basketball league representatives will not be held this evening, but instead will be held next Thursday, Oct. 28. The meeting will be at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Ames and Franklin Avenues, and will start at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 28.

The session is for those interested in entering teams in any of four leagues: Church, Classic, High School or Women's. The park district basketball program will start next month.

Football Trojans host St. Francis Borgia

Madison High School will host St. Francis Borgia High of Washington, Mo., in a 2 p.m. grid contest Saturday on Trojan Field, the first-ever confrontation between the two schools.

Neither do the schools have anything in common with each other on the playing field. Madison has an 8-6 record and Borgia is 7-0.

Coach Harold Flanagan's eleven has defeated Union 6-0, John P. Kennedy High 32-6, Potosi 12-0, Warrenton 40-7, St. Charles 21-19, Priory 6-0 and Wentzville 14-0. All are Missouri schools.

Like Madison, however, Borgia is an independent school.

It is seeking its first trip, since its football program was established in 1959, to the state playoffs.

Coach Flanagan believes his team's defense is the key to its success this season.

"Our line averages about 190 pounds per player," he said. "It is quick and holds up the opposing runner long enough for our secondary to complete the tackling job."

Calling the signals for Borgia is Pat Zoellner, 6-2, 165-pound senior, who is regarded as an accurate passer.

On the receiving end of aerials is Chuck Marquart, who also serves as placement kicker.

Moving out of the backfield on running plays are Jack Wagner, Dave Brinker, Dan Shields and Jeff Bolland, with six touchdowns each this season.

Borgia's four-man front defensive line may find it tough attempting to containing the passing skills of Trojan Quarterback Joe Fischecinski, however.

A 6-3, 175-pound junior, Fischecinski has completed 39 passes for 567 yards and four touchdowns on receptions by James Heard, Duane Bochani and Rudy Rangel.

In addition, he has hit both

Pete Feurka and Earnest Davenport with two-point conversion aerials.

On the ground, Madison has gained 590 yards, with Sophomore Heard gaining 282. Heard is also the leading pass receiver with 151 yards.

Sub-sectional field hockey Oct. 28, 29

GCIS South will host one of three girls' field hockey sub-sectional contests from which the victors will compete in the Edwardsville sectional Nov. 3, 4 and 5 at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville field.

Of the seven schools entered in sub-sectional play, Edwardsville drew a bye and automatically advances to the sectional competition.

GCIS North opens the sub-sectional on Thursday, Oct. 28, at Okawville at 3:45 p.m.

On Friday, Oct. 29, GCIS South hosts Roxana in a 2 p.m. game. A contest between Wood River and Mascoutah will be played Saturday, Oct. 30, at Wood River.

Alton Redbirds visit Warrior eleven Friday

GCIS South hosts former Southwestern Conference foe Alton tomorrow for an 8 p.m. football contest in the Granite City Stadium.

Although Coach Stan Wojcik's Warriors are scheduled to start a member of that conference, Alton is still active with an 0-4 conference mark and a 2-4 overall record to date.

The Redbirds won two non-conference games to start the 1976 season, 21-20 over Galesburg and 13-7 over Quincy High School, and has played Southwestern opponents close while losing.

Alton lost 7-0 to Cahokia, 28-14 to Edwardsville, 35-29 to Collinsville and last weekend 27-21 to Belleville East.

Coach George Larnes' roster lists 15 players back from last year's team, which had a 4-5 record, including a 20-18 loss to the Warriors.

Included among the returnees is Senior Mike Woodward, who has been clocked dashing 40 yards in 4.7 seconds and who has rushed to date for 83 yards.

Brad Hewitt, 6-2, 190-pound senior, is the Redbird signal caller and has scored four touchdowns this season.

Alton's next leading scorer is Senior Andy Hightower, 6-0, 150, with three TDs, all on pass receptions from Hewitt.

Hightower heads the team in yards gained on receptions, 183.

Senior Jeff Stetson, 5-10 and 175, leads the list of rushers with 139 yards and one TD.

Hewitt's most yards gained in the air during a single game occurred last weekend against East when he connected on 12 of 22 attempts for 154 yards. He scored two TD's himself in that contest.

Senior Bob Wood, 5-11, 160, has provided Alton with points on placement kicks and three points on a 17-yard field goal.

GCIS South's 2-4 mark includes victories over two Southwestern Conference teams — 21-20 over Cahokia and 28-27 in overtime last weekend over Collinsville.

Junior Cliff Moran heads Warrior rushing with 430 yards and Senior Tim Anderson has caught two Quarterback Keith Champion aerials for a total of 126 yards. Moran has scored four touchdowns and Anderson one.

The Warriors have totaled 880 yards on the ground and 284 in the air.

GC school district to sell six portable classrooms

Portable classrooms located at Emerson, Webster and Maryville Schools were declared surplus by the Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night during a monthly board meeting and will be offered for sale by bid invitation at a later date.

There are two buildings at each school and with the decreased enrollment it does not seem feasible to have the buildings surveyed by an architect and brought into compliance with the Life Safety Code, according to Ronald Landman, maintenance supervisor.

Programs housed in the portable classrooms can be transferred into the schools without any difficulty, the board noted.

The resignation of William C. Luebber, a teacher at McKinley, was accepted by the board. A request for a leave of absence by Daphne Hodges, Maryville School teacher, and extension of the leaves of absence for Barbara Young, pre-school teacher, and Mary Davis, secretary, also were granted by the board members.

Board members also agreed to hire Brian Earnay as a laborer, effective Wednesday, Oct. 20.

Board President Thomas Miodsky was named to serve as delegate, and George Moore, board member, as alternate delegate, to the November meeting of the Illinois Association of School Boards to be held in Chicago. Donald Stucke and Stephen Salich, board members, also will attend the sessions.

The fall conference of the IASB Southwestern Division will be conducted at 6 p.m. on Tuesday at the Marissa Junior-Senior High School, it was noted. Two board members and several administrators will attend.

Topics to be discussed include administrators' evaluation, how and where to cut spending, developing an effective administrative team, living with the tenure law, guidelines for Illinois Municipal retirement fund and principals' workshop.

Dale C. Rea, assistant to the superintendent, said Chief White Eagle is scheduled to visit four elementary schools on Nov. 4 and will speak at school assemblies on Indian lore and crafts. The trip is sponsored each year by the Brunswick Tri-Motor Bowling Center.

There were many firsts in the initial 1976-77 program. Alan Lewis and Ray Barker called in front of an audience for the first time, and Kim O'Dell led a "mini" group in presenting the interpretative dance, "Holly Holy." Participating was a cadre for the teen interpretative group currently being organized.

Jonnie Lou Barker led a group of teenage girls in doing a present dance craze, "The Continental." Mrs. Emma Boyd, the Checkerboards' 85-year-old "grandma," also initiated a first: she now tapes her program in advance, and presents two- and three-part harmony on the violin.

The Checkerboard Squares' youngest member, 24-year-old Tiffany Moore, with the assistance of Denise Pingel, distributed candy to residents who attended the performance. All Checkerboard Squares also distributed candy and booklets to those residents confined to their rooms or otherwise unable to attend the show.

Checkerboard Squares' attending were Steve Dohal, staff caller, and Donald Marcurm, Frank White, Ray Barker, Shane Kline, Vincent Dohal, Alan Lewis, Ray Jones, Mark Mainridge, Anthony Evanoff, Jim Taylor, staff caller, Ken Buford, staff caller, and Debbie Miller, Lori Derowski, Kim Smith, Denise Pingel, Sherri Marerum, Bea Gott, Sylvia Gott, Brenda Gott, Kim O'Dell, Kim O'Dell, Dawn Langford and Jonnie Lou Barker.

Bob Boyd is the director and caller.

Plan recreational survey

The Venice Board of Education at a meeting Monday evening granted permission for a recreation interest survey to be taken in the high school.

A similar survey will be taken in the Madison High School board approval in an effort by the Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) and the Madison Coordinated Youth office to determine interest of area youth in recreational areas.

In other action, the board approved a salary of $225 for the elementary basketball coach, Philip Daniels; approved Charles Berger as a delegate

Mrs. Sharon Holum, 33, of 2005 Wilson Ave., ill for five years, died at 11:58 a.m. Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital where she had been a patient for one week.

Rites for mother of Mrs. Presley

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. on Oct. 11 at the Loretto (Tenn.) Methodist Church for Mrs. Ella Lou Green, 83, of Loretto, mother of Mrs. Clayton Wesley of Mitchell.

Mrs. Green died Oct. 8 at the Westhairs Hospital in Loretto. Her husband, Wiley F. Green, preceded her in death.

Other survivors include another daughter, Mrs. Irene Niatts of New Orleans, La.; two sons, Jesse Green, Arnold, Mo., and Doyle Green of Loretto; a sister, Miss Jamie Littrell of Loretto; 15 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Animal adoption clinic at Nameoki Saturday

The Quad-Cities Chapter of the Animal Protective Association (APA) will hold a pet adoption clinic from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the adoption kennel near Gasen's Drug store in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center. Among the animals being offered for adoption are several which have been with the society for years, including two which have been with the APA three years. One three-year APA mascot is Lady, a spayed female, part terrier, which would be an excellent guard dog and is being offered for an elderly couple only. It needs to be kept inside a house and given love, an APA spokesman said. The other long-term resident of the APA is Tammy, a female part Persian cat which is black and white and is 12 years old. A quite secure home with an elderly person is being sought. An adult male large black dog, part spaniel, is available for a home with older children. Also offered is a male neutered cat named Joe which is a 1-year-old brown and white tabby. On the APA "Three most lovable" cat list are Raag, an adult female, gray and orange, which has been with the APA one and a half years and would be a good pet for children; a female brown Tabby, 9-months old, suitable for any home, and a female adult gray tabby which is gentle and sociable. The APA spokesman noted donations still are needed for the society's building fund if a new home is to be constructed for homeless animals. Donations sent to Post Office Box 1311, Granite City, 62040, will be greatly appreciated and will be earmarked for that fund, the spokesman said.

Schedule school closings

Granite City elementary schools will be dismissed at 11:45 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, for faculty in-service day, and also will be dismissed on Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 11:45 a.m. for parent-teacher conferences. Parochial schools, including St. Joseph, St. Elizabeth, Sacred Heart and St. Margaret Mary in Granite City, and St. Mary-St. Mark in Madison and Venice, will have a free day on Nov. 1, which is a religious holiday. Veteran's Day on Thursday.

Nov. 11, will be observed by all public and parochial schools in the Quad-Cities with no classes scheduled. Career Fair at Venice High School set Nov. 4

The first meeting of the Venice High School Vocational Advisory Council was held in the VHS home economics department with the chairman, Jim Foley, auditor of First National Bank in Madison, presiding.

The guest, Mrs. Jewell Young, a member of the State Advisory Board who works under the Home Economics and Agriculture Boards, explained that the board sets up programs for extension courses with the schools and provides guidance to them by giving advice and making recommendations. The board meets twice a year and the members are elected to two or three-year terms. Specific progress was noted through several reports, Foley said. Five junior and senior boys are enrolled in the machine shop program at Venice Lincoln Technical Center. There is a possibility of a student enrolling in the welding program at VLTTC next semester. Each semester a student will be placed in St. Elizabeth Hospital as an industrial cook, it was reported. She will receive related instruction at school and will work at a minimum wage for three and one-half hours a day. The opinion that most recent graduates are literate and that many are capable of handling a skilled or semi-skilled job was voiced. The apprenticeship programs also were explained. A Career Fair will be held at the high school Nov. 4. Several persons from local industries will aid in the program. Members present as consultants were Foley; Lloyd Patterson, welding instructor, VLTTC; Mrs. Margaret Lee, public relations, First National Bank in Madison; Edward F. Reiske, executive director Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce; Al Weider, Consolidated

Aluminum Corporation; Mrs. Al Weider, guest; Mrs. Helen Pier, secretary, Title Seven Project, and Mrs. Young. Parents present were, Mrs. Ruth Rankin, child care instructor, VLTTC, Mrs. Hattie Mulink, Mrs. Velma Bradley and Mrs. Grace Foley. Representing the teachers and administration were Robert Vickers, superintendent; John Rush, principal, Venice High School; Mrs. Hazel Smith, vocational coordinator; Mary Sue Harper, secretary, Vocational Advisory Council; Johnnie Morris, Omar Butts, James Gregg, Al Schaefer, and K. Duane Rankin, director, VLTTC. Students present were, Carolyn Richmond, Bella Guest, Rosie Gardner, Venice Govan, and Andrea Withers.

MARC MASON of Granite City flies through the air to stop a shot on goal as a member of the SIUE soccer Cougars. A former Warrior soccer player, he hopes to coach soccer and to play the game at the professional level.

Cougars host tough Quincy

The nationally third-ranked SIUE soccer team faces another stiff test Saturday at Cougar Field when the Quincy College Hawks come calling for a 1:30 p.m. game.

Quincy, defending National Intercollegiate Athletic Association soccer champion and winner for six of the last seven years, is now 8-2-1 for the season. Coach Bob Guelker's SIUE kickers are 9-1-0, having lost only to No. 1 Clemson 4-2 in overtime Oct. 2. Quincy is ranked 11th.

Over the years, in their knock-down-and-drag-out battles, SIUE has a 4-3 edge in the series. The 1969 contest ended in a 3-3 draw in the rain and mud at Quincy.

Both lineups are well stocked with St. Louis area players, young men who have played on the same grade school teams, against each other in prep ranks, both with and against each other in amateur games, and now on opposite sides in college.

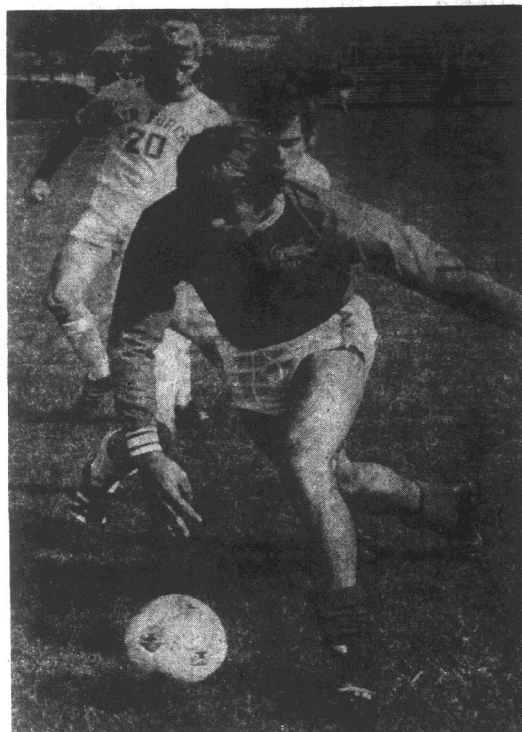

Such a combination could make for some brilliant soccer, fans predict.

The two schools are so closely matched that they ended up playing for an international championship in the summer of 1975 when they battled it out in Holland for the International Youth Tournament crown. SIUE won it 2-0, and Quincy avenged that loss by topping the Cougars 6-3 in overtime last fall.

The Cougars will be back at full strength with Greg Makowski, Greg Villa, Gene Michalew and Tim Twellman returning to the lineup. Only Twellman may not be fully recovered from the effects of a flu attack.

SIUE beat Akron, Oneonta State U. of New York and the University of Missouri-St. Louis. So did Quincy, and by almost identical scores.

Quincy's top scorer is Frank Slay with eight points; SIUE is paced by Villa with 11 goals and three assists.

ATTACK AGAINST AIR FORCE. Greg Villa of the SIUE soccer team moves against an Air Force defender, Bob Soucy, in a weekend game won 2-1 by the host Cougars. Villa scored the Cougars' winning goal in their come-from-behind victory over the Falcons.

Mason brings determination to university soccer tasks

Marc Mason is considered a classic example of what hard work and determination can do.

Last year, as a freshman, he made the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer team as a "walk-on."

That's regarded as quite a feat, considering that the Cougars finished second in the nation last year. But "walking on" as a relatively unknown quantity is not new to Marc.

"When I was a senior at Granite City High School, I decided to go out for the soccer team, and I made it as the backup goalie," says Mason.

By the fourth game of the season, though, he was the Warriors' starting goalkeeper.

He allowed only three goals the entire season. His team lost in the Illinois supersectional to Granite City North on penalty kicks.

There haven't been many such disappointments in his athletic career, however.

Before Granite City High School split into North and South, Mason starred in football for the Warriors during his freshman and sophomore years.

Although he played under a uniquely successful soccer coach at Granite City South, Gene Baker, "he wasn't primarily a goalie coach," Mason said.

"I've also learned a lot from Bob Robson and Rick Benben at SIUE."

Mason plans to major in either business or physical education, but he hasn't decided yet.

He enjoys scuba diving and plans to become a certified scuba diver after the soccer season.

After graduating, he wants to coach high school soccer. "I really enjoy watching soccer. The more I watch, the more I learn," Mason comments.

But before going into coaching, he would give professional soccer a try.

"I don't think I'll get any offers for pro ball. I'll have to walk on."

"But I know if I give it my best shot, I'm just as good as the next guy," Mason said.

That is the kind of determination that may take SIUE to the national championship this year, Cougar coaches believe.

HEATED ACTION ON A COLD DAY. In Monday afternoon's game between the Granite City High School North and South girls' field hockey squads, the South players (dark uniforms) made many attempts to score but the North team won the contest 1-0 with a goal midway through the second half. No. 21 of South is Ellen Zelenka.

UNSUCCESSFUL SCORING ATTEMPT. A lone Steelerette player (light uniform) tries to score early in the second half of play between the North and South girls' field hockey squads Monday afternoon at North nomination as the gubernatorial candidate.

High. The attempt was thwarted, as the South goalie used a foot to deflect the ball wide of the goal. North won the contest 1-0 with a goal midway through the second half.

Hylla, 45, is area supervisor of license investigators for the secretary of state.

He is a lifelong Madisonian. After 20 years' work at the International Shoe Co., which curtailed its St. Louis operations, he spent two years on the Illinois Highway Division's emergency highway patrol in the East St. Louis area.

Associated with the state vehicle license investigation staff for the past six and a half years, Hylla serves as area supervisor for seven counties—Madison, Bond, Calhoun, Jersey, Clinton, St. Clair and Monroe.

He and his wife, Loretta, are the parents of four children. David, honored as a scholar athlete, is an SIUE student. Linda attends Assumption High School and Elaine and Kurt are students of St. Mary's School, Madison.

Hylla is active in St. Mary's Catholic Church and the St. Stanislaus Polish lodge.

Robinson is an incumbent member of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District Board of Trustees.

He and Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold of Venice are the two Madison County members of that board. Both are Democrats.

He has served on the board since being elected in November 1972.

Hylla is a graduate of Granite City High School and is employed by Granite City Steel as an operator on the pickle line.

He is on the board of directors of the Granite City Steel Credit Union and is a member of Tri-City American Legion Post 113 and Amvets Post 51.

Robinson and his wife, Dolores, have five children. Robinson was immediately confirmed unanimously by the Madison County Board. Hylla's appointment came as a surprise to board members; he has not become well known in political circles.

The names of several Republicans had been mentioned in speculation as possible appointees. Hagnauer said he selected Hylla as a relatively young man familiar with drainage issues and well qualified to hold the appointment.

"I have never come to this board with an appointee I did not feel was qualified and capable. I will not embarrass this board or myself by doing that," Hagnauer said at the meeting.

Hagnauer's remarks were viewed to calm opposition from

Board Member Louis Whitsett of Nameoki Township, who expressed disappointment that neither of the appointees was from Nameoki Township.

"We in Nameoki Township are the melting pot for drainage problems in Madison County. The water from all around comes into Nameoki Township. Nameoki Township is most concerned with serious drainage problems, not with political patronage," Whitsett said.

Hagnauer responded, "If you can tell me how I can appoint someone from every township, I'll be glad to do it."

A roll call vote was taken on Hylla's appointment. Whitsett, Daniel Partney of Granite City and Homer Bothman of State Park Place voted against the appointment and 25 members voted to concur in Hagnauer's choice.

Can't's announcement of his three St. Clair County appointees is expected to be made Monday night.

Girls' tennis district here

Girls' tennis coaches representing nine high schools will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at GCHS South to decide seeding of players in preparation for tomorrow's start of an Illinois High School Association district meet to be hosted by South High.

Two singles players and two doubles teams each from Belleville Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, East St. Louis, Lincoln, Cahokia, Waterloo, GCHS North and South will participate in the competition, starting at 2 p.m. tomorrow and concluding Saturday.

The winners and runners-up in both singles and doubles will advance to state tournament play at Arlington Heights, Ill., Oct. 29 and 30.

Singles competition tomorrow will be played at North High Courts and semifinals and finals will be played at the Wilson Park courts.

Also tomorrow, doubles competition will be played at the South High courts for opening rounds, with all remaining doubles matches to be played at Wilson Park.

Cahokia's Dana Hawkins is seeking her third singles championship, and Susan Pulley and Mary Zellerman of Belleville East will attempt to repeat as district doubles winners.

Seeking the singles title for GCHS South will be Christi Bauer and Melody Roseman.

South's doubles entries are Tammi Depew-Laura Gabriel and Lori Dochwat-Theresa Haynes.

For GCHS North, Sue Hommert and Margie Verchell are the duo of Tina Taylor-Margie Cooke and Mary Bequette-Jane Marshall.

Study challenges states' gambling

(American Psychological Association)

"With the advent of legalized gambling in as many as 21 states across the country, we state of increased incidence of compulsive gambling as an important factor in troubled family relationships," according to Joseph A. Dume of the National Council on Compulsive Gambling.

Compulsive gambling is a social problem and a psychological impairment, usually resulting in debt, unemployment and the subsequent rupture of the gambler's family.

Gamblers Anonymous, formed in 1907, has served as a peer group which helps the victim "entirely a self-destructive habit, and assures the person that abstinence is possible on a long-term basis."

Psychologists and other researchers who have examined gambling behavior and the impact of governmental policies reported on their findings at the 84th annual convention of the American Psychological Association in September.

Psychologist Maureen Kallick and economist Daniel Suits of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center reported on a study they conducted under a grant by the National Gambling Commission.

The researchers interviewed two thousand people, including a sample in Nevada, where nearly all forms of gambling are legal.

Their findings are extensive, describing "who bets, how much, on what, and what it all adds up to."

Sixty-one per cent of the sample, equivalent to 88 million American adults, gambled during 1974; 48 per cent engaged in legal, commercial gambling, and 11 per cent reported illegal betting.

"There is a strong tendency to specialize betting on one game to the exclusion of others," but "there is less exclusivity among illegal gamblers."

Who bets? Men slightly more often than women, whites more than members of other races, and people with more money and education.

Regarding legalized gambling, the investigators found that "90 per cent of the respondents said they were favorable to the legalization of at least one of the 13 gambling activities listed on the questionnaire, but... except where a game is already legal there is no consensus about whether a game would be legalized."

"Tax revenue available from a legalized game is not a sure thing and depends on essentially three factors: potential demand, operating cost and tax rate."

When asked who should control a legal gambling facility, "a clear majority preferred operation of the facility by private business, subject to governmental regulation rather than outright state operation."

The researchers found that the issue of legalized gambling "appears to involve very little political heat," even though the data indicate that "poor people are more readily caught up in the social atmosphere of gambling than are richer members of the community."

When the authors examined how the burden of gambling taxes is apportioned among income groups, they found notable exceptions to the tendency for gambling or gambling expenditures to rise with income.

"Per capita expenditures on lottery tickets and numbers tend to decline, with rising income."

"All those whose incomes fall below $10,000... earned 11.49 per cent of total income, but contributed 24.68 per cent of total spending for lottery tickets and 33.48 per cent of total spending on numbers."

The regressive nature of legalized lottery and numbers games has been ignored by policy-makers who are legalizing and using regressive gambling as a revenue source.

Surprisingly, parimutuel gambling at racetracks was found to be no more regressive than most state sales taxes.

Steelmakers appeal to stop emission cuts

The American Iron and Steel Institute and six major steel companies, including National Steel Corp., have filed suit in the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia to attempt to keep the U.S. Labor Department from enacting proposed new regulations reducing particulate emissions from coke oven facilities.

The proposed regulations are the first ever to mandate specific alterations to coke ovens which are designed to reduce airborne particles and to protect the health of coke-oven workers from "benzene-soluble particles" believed associated with cancer.

All previous federal regulations had required companies to use the most feasible technology in altering coke ovens to meet emission standards.

While a standard of not more than 0.5 milligrams of benzene-soluble particles is set in the Labor Department's regulations, the document would force steelmakers to complete the required alterations even if the 0.5 milligram standard already has been met.

Steelmakers contend there is no technology currently available for the modifications and that the regulations are "unreasonably stringent."

STEELMAKERS appeal to stop emission cuts

The American Iron and Steel Institute and six major steel companies, including National Steel Corp., have filed suit in the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia to attempt to keep the U.S. Labor Department from enacting proposed new regulations reducing particulate emissions from coke oven facilities.

The proposed regulations are the first ever to mandate specific alterations to coke ovens which are designed to reduce airborne particles and to protect the health of coke-oven workers from "benzene-soluble particles" believed associated with cancer.

All previous federal regulations had required companies to use the most feasible technology in altering coke ovens to meet emission standards.

While a standard of not more than 0.5 milligrams of benzene-soluble particles is set in the Labor Department's regulations, the document would force steelmakers to complete the required alterations even if the 0.5 milligram standard already has been met.

Steelmakers contend there is no technology currently available for the modifications and that the regulations are "unreasonably stringent."

County insurance problem

Madison County officials are to find out today what the county's premium will be for the upcoming year for workmen's compensation insurance—and the premium is expected to be 100 per cent to 150 per cent higher than the present premium.

The county's present insurance carrier notified the county this month that it would not renew the present policy when it expires Nov. 1.

The county applied for entry into the state's assigned risk pool of insurance companies from which the state assigns it to one company, but all of the companies in the pool share the loss in the event claims exceed the premiums paid.

County Superintendent of Highways Lester Miller told the County Board Wednesday morning that the county this week was assigned by the state to Lumbermen's Mutual Insurance Co. of Chicago and notification of the premium should be made today.

Board members discussed allowing the present policy to lapse and attempting to seek a 30-day or 60-day policy until a better annual premium could be found, but Miller said he did not feel any company would accept the county for a short period and the highway department would have to be closed for the period there was no insurance.

New state compensation laws, increasing the benefits to injured workers, was cited as the reason for the insurance companies increasing their premiums and most refusing to renew workmen's compensation policies.

The insurance companies have no basis on which it can estimate what kind of claims will be made on each policy so they have no way to determine what the appropriate premiums should be, the board was told.

The board agreed to authorize County Clerk Evelyn Bowles to issue a certified check for one year's premium to the insurance company as soon as the premium amount is known.

220 hear Sen. Partee propose ERA passage

A supporter of ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) in Illinois, State Senator Cecil A. Partee, president of the Illinois Senate, described various legislation concerning women's and individual rights already accomplished by the Illinois General Assembly at last night's dinner meeting of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club.

Sen. Partee, Democratic candidate for Illinois attorney general, addressed a capacity crowd of BPW members, state and city officials and candidates in the Nov. 2 general election at the Trinity Hall in Madison.

More than 220 attended the club's annual "Legislative Night" dinner, one of several activities marking National Business Women's Week in the Quad-Cities.

Noting that he was a native of Arkansas which paid his tuition to attend Northwestern University School of Law at Evanston, Ill., and subsequently to move to this state, Sen. Partee said his rapport with women's groups was due, in part, to a lack of babysitters when a young child.

"As no babysitters were available in those days, I learned a great deal about women's clubs through accompanying my mother everywhere," the state Senate president recalled.

Among the guests introduced by Attorney Leo Konzen, master of ceremonies, were State Representatives Joe Lucco and Everett Steele; Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold; Wood River Mayor William Magurany; Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse; Madison City Clerk John Bickoff; Christ Passhoff, Venice Township supervisor; Dan Partney, Madison County Board member; Granite City Supt. of Streets Lionel Portell; Robert Stevens, Granite City clerk; Madison County Sheriff John Maeras; Nick Byron, Madison County state's attorney; Dallas Burke, Madison County coroner; Granite City aldermen Warren Decatur and William Dallas.

George Sykes, Granite City Park Board member; George Slattery, Republican district chairman; Jim McKee and Eva McDonald, Republican candidates for state representative; and other GOP candidates, Chuck Evers for state's attorney; Madison County Vernon Schulte, circuit clerk; Bob Lynch, recorder of deeds, and Sam Drenovac, congressional representative, 3rd District.

Many other officials from elected bodies in the Quad-Cities were introduced. Mrs. Sylvia Wright, BPW president, was in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. Rosalie Portell and Mrs. Elvira Thurber among the dinner chairmen.

Dallas Cowboys, coach featured in new movie

A Man and His Men, a new sports film featuring Tom Landry and the Dallas Cowboys football team, will be shown at Tri-City Park Tabernacle Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

A Man and His Men takes a penetrating look at people involved in the violent world of professional football. Rarely has an effort to gain victory been more intense than that of the man, Tom Landry, head coach, and his men, The Dallas Cowboys, one of the "most exciting and explosive teams in professional football," according to the Rev. Dennis Woodruff, associate pastor at the church.

A Man and His Men portrays the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat through the films supplied by the National Football League, but it is much more than a sports film. It takes a penetrating look at a Christian coach and the impact of his life on other people. It talks about faith. It exhibits works and gives men, young and old, a classic example of what being a Christian really is, Rev. Woodruff said.

Billy Zeoli, president of Gospel Films, Inc., and the executive producer of A Man and His Men when releasing the film for showings across the world said, "The fast action footage supplied by the National Football League and the penetrating in-depth look at the Christian character of Tom Landry make this one of the most exciting films of my career."

Rev. Woodruff said the public is invited to the showing and said, "If you love football, you won't want to miss this film." The Youth Department of the church also will sponsor a hayride and Halloween party at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 30. Tickets are available by calling 931-4500. About 118 youngsters attended the party last year. More than 350 are expected at this year's event.

Fewer veterans attending college

A nationwide decline in enrollment of veterans in institutions of higher education apparently has affected enrollment at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Robert M. Bruker, director of admissions and records, said the final count for the fall quarter is expected to reach 17,400 or 112 less than the 1975 fall enrollment of 12,212.

Coincidentally, there are 800 less males on campus, including 500 fewer married veterans. Bruker attributes the decline to the expiration of veterans' benefits, affecting 150,000 veterans in Illinois alone this year.

Nationwide, enrollment of veterans this fall declined 375,000 or 34 per cent below last year's record of more than 1.1 million students, according to a survey by The Chronicle of Higher Education.

GI Bill education benefits expired in June for an unusually high number of former servicemen — more than 3.3 million, according to the Veterans Administration.

The VA estimates that the number of newly eligible veterans each year through 1980 will be more than offset by the number whose eligibility is scheduled to run out.

In Illinois, the Higher Board of Education reports enrollment declines at several institutions, including the University of Illinois, which lost about 1,500 students, a drop of nearly 4.5 per cent.

Bruker also cites lack of available housing in the area as a reason for a decline in

4-tow lock procedures

New locking techniques put into effect this week at Locks and Dam 26, Alton, are intended to extend the capability of the locks, allowing for increased traffic without making major structural changes.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Louis District, has ordered that lockages be made according to a set of procedures utilizing extension of the upstream guideway, a change in lockage sequence and use of a helper boat to increase the efficiency of the locks reducing congestion and delay.

The operational change implements procedures detailed in a study by Peat Marwick and Mitchell which began in 1973.

This study suggested alternatives for improving the lock's efficiency in anticipation of continuing expansion of inland waterway traffic.

A projection indicates that the locks will be called upon to transit a record-breaking total of over 59 million tons of commerce in 1976, up 3 1/2 million tons over 1975 and a 71 per cent increase in the last ten years.

The study indicated that several alternatives could be adopted to reduce lockage times and delays. The selected plan calls for lockage of four tows upbound followed by four locking down, using helper boats to remove unpowered low sections of double lockage tows.

The plan also stresses the addition of special Delong Piers to allow for longer guideway space which provides for reassembly of tows after lockage is complete. The Delong Piers were obtained through the U. S. Army Troop Support Command.

Colonel Leon McKinney, St. Louis district engineer, said Tuesday the procedure will increase the locks efficiency to accommodate the level of traffic expected until 1983.

"We have continued to seek ways," said Col. McKinney, "to keep traffic moving through the locks as waterborne transportation continues to increase at a record-breaking rate."

"With the cooperation of the operators and industry, we hope to achieve measures that will enable us to handle the traffic safely and as efficiently as possible with the limitations of the current facility."

FIRST CONCERT TONIGHT

Opening concerts at the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's 1976-1977 season will feature Spanish pianist Alicia de Larrocha and will be conducted by Music Director and Principal Conductor Jerry Semkow.

The concerts will be held tonight and Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday at 3 p.m. Tonight's and Saturday's concertgoers and all St. Louis Symphony Orchestra season ticket holders are invited to opening night parties in the grand foyer of Powell Symphony Hall immediately following both evening concerts. There will be dancing and a cash bar.

Pay for audit in dispute

A legal opinion that Chouteau Township Highway Commissioner James Estes should pay for the annual audit of the highway department's funds from road accounts, was read to the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors Monday night.

When the auditing firm of R. C. Scheffel & Co., Alton, was hired by the board, Estes warned he would not approve paying the highway department's portion of the auditing costs, since he would prefer an auditing firm of his choice.

Estes further said he was unhappy with the results of the highway department's audit, which criticized him for alleged inadequate bookkeeping and control procedures.

When the $1,275 bill, including $700 for his portion of the audit, was presented to Estes two weeks ago, Estes said he would refuse to pay the bill and the town board tabled the issue until a legal opinion could be prepared by the township's attorney.

That opinion, presented to the board Monday night, said each fund audited should pay its proportionate share of the audit cost—including the town fund, general assistance, municipal retirement, road and bridge and special hard road funds.

Estes again refused to approve the $700 bill for the highway accounts audit and the board again tabled the bill, requesting that Estes consult with the highway department's attorney about his obligations concerning the bill.

The opinion was expressed that the board should pay the township's portion of the auditing bill, exclusive of the highway department's portion, at the next meeting and the auditing firm then could file suit against the highway department, if necessary, to collect that portion of the bill.

Some auditors questioned a $30 check the highway department had accepted from a township resident for mowing weeds on private property, asking whether it is legal for the highway department to contract out to work for individuals.

The issue was discussed, but was not resolved.

In response to an inquiry to U.S. Congressman Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis) on whether townships will receive revenue sharing checks next fiscal year, a letter was received which was read at the meeting.

The letter and a communication from the Department of Local Government Affairs indicated that under new legislation townships will be eligible to continue to receive revenue sharing, but a funding formula has not been finalized.

It was reported all necessary permits for construction of the new town hall and community center building have been obtained and construction is proceeding on schedule.

Mrs. Patricia Polley, town clerk, warned the board that the township's premium for workmen's compensation insurance is about to be increased due to recent state legislation offering more benefits to injured workers.

However, Mrs. Polley received a letter Tuesday informing her the township's WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION policy will not be renewed after it expires Dec. 30.

It is believed many insurance companies are cancelling governmental and industry workmen's compensation coverages in an attempt to force the state to limit benefits which may be received by injured workers.

Board members noted that one member would be unable to attend the previously announced November meetings, so the schedule was revised.

The Oct. 25 meeting was cancelled and November meetings were slated for Monday, Nov. 1; Friday, Nov. 12, and Monday, Nov. 29, all beginning at 7 p.m. in the town office at 828 Thergate Drive, Mitchell.

See record vote

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
A record vote in the Nov. 2 general election is being predicted by Madison County political leaders and election officials due to intense interest in the presidential and Illinois governor campaigns, it was reported here today.

Supporting such predictions were reports by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles that an all-time high number of applications for absentee ballots is being received by her office, and that the recent registration of new voters far exceeded that of any other registration period in many years.

Miss Bowles said that while voters have until 5 p.m., Oct. 26, to apply for absentee ballots by mail, and until 5 p.m., Nov. 1, to cast absentee ballots in person, her office already has received 1,950 applications for absentee ballots.

Absentee voting always is a barometer of election interest, she said, noting that with another week remaining for absentee balloting it is likely such activity will set a new record this year.

New registration figures are expected to be computed within the next few days, Miss Bowles said. But in a series of special registration periods held throughout the county prior to Oct. 5, the registration deadline, registrars reported much heavier registration activity than in any previous such period in recent years.

The present record vote in a general election in Madison County was cast in the 1972 election when a total of 101,398 persons cast ballots in local, state and national voting. The total number of registered voters at that time was 131,001.

At the same time, Miss Bowles announced that for the first time in Madison County, registered voters who move from one address to another, from Oct. 5 to the election, whether in the precinct, county, state or out-of-state, will be permitted to vote for president and vice-president.

Any such person must have been registered prior to the Oct. 5 registration deadline, she explained. In the past, voters who moved from their address between the time of the deadline for registration and the date of the election were unable to vote at all because of residency requirements.

Miss Bowles said that this year any registered voter who does move, even to another state, may vote, but only for the office of president and vice-president. She said the concession is provided in a federal law approved in 1970, but implemented only this year by a regulation of the Illinois State Board of Elections.

Democratic campaigning in the Quad-City area stepped up this week with an appearance by Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, Democratic candidate for governor, at a meeting of Madison County Democratic committeewomen at the Long Lake Fire Hall on Monday, and an address by Cecil A. Partee, Democratic candidate for attorney general at a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday night.

A major Democratic rally is planned Oct. 30 in the former Grant store building at Namoki Shopping Center at which Howlett, other state candidates and possibly a representative of Presidential Candidate Jimmy Carter will appear.

Rules county may not change decisions on zoning issues

Madison County Board members were told Wednesday morning that they have no authority to reverse any action they have taken on zoning changes in the county.

The notification the board could not "change its mind" came in a legal opinion from the Madison County State's Attorney's office, which ruled there is no provision in the county's zoning ordinance to reverse a decision, and therefore there is no way the county can approve a zoning change or special use permit one month and then change that ruling the next month.

Board member Louis Whitwell of Nameki Township received the opinion from Don Smith, chief assistant state's attorney for governmental matters after Whitwell announced he will attempt to overrule the granting of a permit for dentists' offices at Maryville Road and Clinton Drive.

A special use permit for the dentists was issued by the board last month, on the recommendation of the County Zoning Board of Appeals.

Whitwell charged the zoning board did not alert the County Board of great opposition to the proposal by residents near that location, and thus the board voted blindly to approve the permit, despite that opposition and a petition against the project.

Whitwell said he intends to see that the dentists live up to the terms of the permit, which was granted for a "home occupation of a professional and service office." Whitwell contended the terms of that provision call for the operator of the business to reside in the building and use not more than one-fourth of the floor space for the business.

"Their lot is not large enough to build a house where one-fourth of it will hold a six-chair dentist's office," he said. The board voted to have the ordinance committee study the zoning ordinance and propose wording which would leave a 30-day "lapse period" during which the county would be able to reconsider a zoning decision before the actual start of construction.

$5,000 damage caused by fire

Long Lake firemen were called out three times early this week, on one occasion to an apartment complex fire that caused estimated damage of more than $5,000. That fire was in an unoccupied apartment on Gaslight Walk.

Fire Chief C. Arnold Rutherford said the fire is believed to have started in a bathroom area in one of the downstairs apartments spreading upward into another bathroom and to the roof.

Firemen were at the scene about an hour and a half. Damage is estimated in excess of $5,000, he said. The possibility of arson is being investigated. The apartments are owned by Illini Federal Savings and Loan Association.

A fire in the kitchen of Al Claus, 4121 South Drive, at 12:10 p.m. Monday was out upon arrival. The fire started as fumes from glue being used to put down kitchen linoleum ignited. An estimated $150 damage was done.

On Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. a semitruck jackknifed at the intersection of Highway 111 and Pontion Road, breaking open a 100-gallon gas tank. Firemen were called to the scene and washed the area down to prevent fire.

New concern on Alton guidewall's stability

A "series of voids under the lower intermediate guidewall" at Alton Locks and Dam 26 have been uncovered during a diver's investigation, Lambert Buchhold of the St. Louis District, Army Corps of Engineers, has reported.

The St. Louis District spokesman called the condition "serious" and reported that the "stability of the wall is in question."

He said the voids were caused by sand materials being washed away under the concrete wall.

Buchhold noted that the St. Louis District is now studying alternative methods to alleviate the problem and repair the damage. He said the district expects to coordinate specific proposals with industry representatives in the near future.

New operating techniques designed to extend the capability of Locks and Dam 26 for increased traffic without making major structural changes became effective Monday.

The new procedures had been formally adopted at a meeting of the Government-Industry Advisory Committee in early August.

Under the new format, lockages are made according to a set of procedures utilizing the extensions of an upstream guidewall, a change in locking sequences and use of a helper boat to increase the efficiency of the locks, reduce congestion and reduce mounting delay problems, the Corps explains.

The new procedures are part of a continuing effort to make the old set of locks, built in 1938, serve until a new structure of greater capacity is available. The operational changes implement procedures detailed in a study by Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, which offered several alternatives for improving the locks efficiency in anticipation of continuing expansion of inland waterway traffic.

Projections indicate that the locks will be called upon to transit a record-breaking total of over 58 million tons of freight in 1976. This would be an increase of 3 1/2 million tons over 1975 and a 21 per cent increase in the last 10 years.

Colonel Leon McKinney, St. Louis District engineer, has pointed out that such measures have become necessary to "make do" with the existing facility until such time as the old structure might be replaced.

He stressed, however, that the procedure will only increase the locks' efficiency to accommodate the level of traffic expected in 1983.

McKinney said that even if Congress would approve new locks and dam, it would be at least eight years before a new facility could be put into service.

While a television commercial claims Mother Nature doesn't like to be fooled by man-made substitutes, this year's drought provides evidence that she will accept help from man-made improvements in distributing her waters, the American Waterways Operators said this week.

Corps of Engineers reservoirs in the Mississippi and Missouri River basins are providing releases to augment river flows in support of navigation, municipal and industrial water supplies, and conservation of fish and wildlife populations. It was noted.

Six reservoirs in Northern Minnesota—Winnipegosis, Leech, Pokegama, Big Sandy, Pine and Gull—are bolstering critically low flows in the Mississippi River.

Were it not for releases from these reservoirs, Corps of Engineers spokesman say that between the Twin Cities and Red Wing there would be severe fish kills in the Upper Mississippi River. Intakes would be mixing sand and water, and barges and towboats would be aground more than at all.

Navigation would probably have been suspended in that reach of the river during August were it not for the reservoir releases in the Upper Mississippi River watershed, according to the Corps.

West of the Twin Cities, six big reservoirs stretching from North Central Montana downstream to Yankton, S. D., are providing the water which sustains life and commerce between Sioux City, Iowa, and the mouth of the Missouri above St. Louis and then down the Mississippi River to the Gulf.

River users say Missouri River flows are the most dependable of all tributary rivers because of the big block of storage behind the main stem dams.

About 45,000 cubic feet of water per second are flowing out of the Missouri into the Mississippi River. The Corps estimates the Missouri would be contributing only 20,000 cfs if the upstream dams weren't in place, an AWO official said, adding, "No fooling; there are occasions when Mother Nature needs help."

GC youngsters win honors at skate tourney

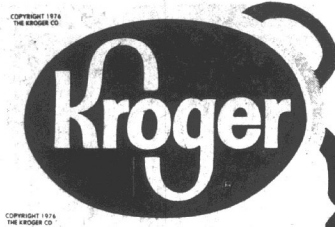

Thomas Hansen and Michele Dickerson, both of Granite City, were first-place gold medal winners at the Illinois-Missouri Interlink roller skating tournament in Quincy, Ill., this week.

Both are 1976 Illinois-Wisconsin skating champions in the Freshmen Division, but competed this week in the Sophomore division because they became 15 years of age following the previous tournament in June.

The youngsters have been skating partners in the dance category since January. Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hansen, 3133 Willow Ave., and Michele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dickerson, 4103 Breckenridge Lane.

Both are skating participants at the Stardust Skate Center in Ponton Beach.

A principal's workshop in cooperation with the Illinois Principals Association will be held during the panel sessions. Also included will be a report by an IASB representative on statewide issues in education. Grants stress humanities and public policy

The Illinois Humanities Council has announced the awarding of 11 grants totaling $122,586 to 11 community organizations or educational institutions in Illinois. The grants will go to support public programs in the humanities in seven communities. Using the Illinois Humanities Council's theme for 1976-77, "Humanities and Public Policy," as a point of departure, groups in Chicago, Carbondale, Springfield, DeKalb, Edwardsville, Mt. Carroll and Lombard will explore issues such as death and dying, economic discrimination, alternative forms of city government, and waste in American culture. Since its inception in 1974, the council has awarded more than $1,000,000 to community organizations and academic institutions. These funded programs and all future programs eligible for support by the Illinois Humanities Council must focus on ways that the fields of the humanities—such as history, philosophy and literature—can illuminate critical issues of public policy. Each of the programs will address policy questions faced by legislators, government officials and Illinois voters. Guidelines for grant applications may be obtained by writing the Illinois Humanities Council, Room 1002, at 201 W. Springfield Ave., Champaign, Ill. 61820. Next deadline for grant applications is Dec. 15.

Bigger tax bites mean smaller retirement savings.

Taxes take bigger and bigger bites out of your income. They could be taking more than their fair share if you're self-employed or not covered by a pension plan. If you're a farmer or other self-employed worker, set aside 15 per cent of your earnings—up to $7,500 annually—in tax-deferred Keogh HR-10 retirement plan. Or put 15 per cent of your earnings—up to $15,000 a year—in an individual retirement account if your company doesn't have a pension or profit plan. Either way this income is sheltered until you retire, when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket. See your Country Companies agent for full retirement plan information. The Country Companies. GC denies rezoning for new restaurant

An ordinance that would have rezoned a tract of land at 2021 Johnson Road for construction of a Taco Bell Restaurant was turned down by the Granite City Council on a 5 to 5 split vote Tuesday night.

The action has the effect of killing the proposal which has been a controversial issue on the council floor in every council meeting since Sept. 21. The council vote on two separate motions was a defeat of attempts to put the ordinance on either first reading or final passage. The ordinance itself never reached a vote.

Disposition of the proposal came after another long discussion in which an attorney representing the developers and two spokesmen for residents living near the proposed construction site were given an opportunity to address the council.

In addition, a petition bearing 317 signatures of neighborhood residents objecting to the proposal was filed with the council at the opening of the council session and a letter was submitted by the Rev. V. Dennis Rutledge, pastor of the Central Christian Church at 2020 Johnson Road, noting objections to the building plan.

The ordinance which would have amended the city's zoning law and rezoned the restaurant site from R-2 (residential) classification to C-1 (commercial) was prepared by City Attorney George Filcoff after the Oct. 5 council session in which the aldermen approved a motion that an ordinance be brought in.

Before Alderman Roy Poulos, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, presented the rezoning ordinance, he yielded the floor to Alderman Sam Whitmer who said the minutes of the Oct. 5 meeting recorded three motions on the issue at that time had carried. He asked if this was correct.

In subsequent discussion it was noted that two of those motions had failed and the third, a motion that the ordinance be prepared and brought before the council, was approved. A motion to correct the minutes was made, although several aldermen argued that such action was unnecessary because the defeated motions meant nothing to the current status of the issue.

On a motion by Alderman Ronald Coleman of the Seventh Ward, the council gave permission to Michael Wertz, 3306 Wabash Ave. to address the council. He told the aldermen that a petition bearing 317 signatures of persons opposing the restaurant construction had been filed with the council.

Wertz offered a rebuttal to statements by William Brandt, attorney for the developers, during the Oct. 5 council meeting in which Brandt said the restaurant would be a first class business employing from 25 to 30 employees and grossing from $450,000 to $500,000 a year which would mean more income for the city.

He said that he is certain the 25 to 30 employees would include a number of teenagers working part time, and that such a restaurant would increase the traffic flow on the neighborhood—one of the major protests made by the objectors.

Brandt also was given an opportunity to speak and he repeated what he had told the council in its previous meeting that a first class restaurant building costing about $100,000 would be built.

"The way this thing is being handled about one word that I was trying to get a message across," Brandt said.

"This city cannot afford to turn away new business. We need the business, the employment and the money it would produce," he added.

Jack Shankel, a resident of the neighborhood, also was permitted to speak. He reiterated the five main objections voiced in earlier meetings by residents of the neighborhood.

"When I was at the last meeting I was confused by the procedure. I got a copy of the minutes and took them to several attorneys. I got a report from them that this is a clear violation of state law."

"What I saw here (Oct. 5) really made me confused. It made me wonder if these fellows (the aldermen) know what they're doing," Shankel added.

This brought a shout of objection from Alderman Steve Basarich, but he was ruled out of order by Alderman Clyde Boyd who served as mayor pro tem in the absence of Mayor Paul Schuler. Shankel was permitted to complete his remarks.

Basarich then took the floor and commented that "You've got a place in the neighborhood now that couldn't compare to this restaurant. I don't appreciate anyone coming in here and telling us that we're confused."

Poulos then presented the rezoning ordinance with a motion that the council suspend the rules and place the measure on final passage. Suspension of rules for final passage requires a minimum of 10 votes on the 14-member council.

Prior to the vote, Alderman Emerald Dawes of the Seventh Ward told the council:

"We have here a petition bearing 317 votes."

The apparent slip of the tongue brought laughter and applause from the audience, which included ten members of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club who were visiting the council meeting as part of a BPW Week observance.

"Well," said Dawes, "in a way they are votes. They are votes against the restaurant being built."

Dawes said that originally he favored the restaurant proposal, but added that because of the objecting petition with the 317 signatures and the large number of telephone calls he has received, "I have found out how the people in my ward feel about this. Therefore, I'm going to have to vote against it."

Alderman William Dallas of the First Ward told the council:

"We had another restaurant proposal in that area, and the men who were going to build it got pressured out. I had a meeting with the restaurant owners and it turned out they didn't want that restaurant to come in. I'm going to vote present." A vote of present is neither a vote for nor against an issue.

On Poulos' motion to suspend the rules for final passage, five aldermen voted in favor, five voted against and Dallas voted present, with three aldermen absent.

Favoring the suspension of the rules were Aldermen Basarich, Boyd, Warren Decatur, Curtis Blevins and Glenn Sprankle. Opposing were Whitmer, Poulos, Dawes, Frank Greenwald and Coleman. Absent were Aldermen Everett Morlen, Gerald Parmley and Earl Baker.

Since a minimum of ten votes was needed to suspend the rules, the motion was declared lost.

Poulos then moved that the ordinance be placed on first reading. Eight votes, which is a simple majority of the 14 council members, was required for passage.

Voting in favor were Basarich, Boyd, Decatur, Blevins, Sprankle and Dallas. The same aldermen voting no on the rules suspension also opposed the first reading.

This motion also was defeated, prohibiting a vote on the rezoning bill.

SAILORS AND CHORUS MEMBERS are practicing songs from the play "Anything Goes" which will be presented by the Granite City High School North advanced speech students for the last time at 8 p.m. today in the South auditorium. First row, from left, are: Beth Goff, Susie Thomason, Shari Christ, Kathy Gilley.

Second row, Becky Muzzarelli, Bob Slate, David Turner, Dean Evans, Kenneth Hogan, Mark Roderick, John Hartung, Melanie Barrett. The presentation of the North Homecoming king and queen will take place following the play today.

Demo women workers praised by Howlett

By DONNA HARTWICK
Press-Record Staff Writer

Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, and Congressman Melvin Price commended the dedicated and continued work of Madison County precinct committee women in support of the Democratic party at a meeting Monday afternoon at Long Lake Firemen's Hall in Pontoon Beach.

Both officials spoke at the monthly meeting of the Madison County Democratic committee women which attracted over 200 members, political workers and other dignitaries.

The women were lauded by both speakers for their "intensive and untiring efforts" at election time in presenting the candidates and their background of experience to the voting public.

Mrs. Margaret McPherson, East Alton, president of the women's organization, gave the welcoming address and introduced Congressman Price who spoke first.

Price said, "The state election is as important as the national elections. Our job is to see things go right in Illinois. The important issues in this campaign are the defense of the people, the welfare of Illinois and getting a man in the White House who is thinking of the people and who is dedicated to restoring responsibility and working with congress for the good of individual citizens."

Howlett reaffirmed his pledge to better education, upgrade the mental health institutions and to reevaluate those who are on public aid and get them back to work.

"Dinners, meetings and rallies are the preliminary shows, but the polling places are the main ring for any candidate, where the votes are cast. The most important part is to see voters get to the polls and their votes are counted correctly," Howlett added.

Howlett said, "I want to keep the people actively participating in elections, the parties and government, and to retain the two-party system which creates strong legislative process."

"This government saw the assassination of a president, senator, fought a war which should not have been, and saw politicians who did wrong, but continued to function and remain strong in both world and national affairs."

Nelson Hagauer, chairman of the Madison County Democratic Committee spoke briefly and commented that the backbone of the party are the committee men and women. All candidates have confidence of great victory."

Among the guests attending were State Rep. Sam Wolf; Harold "Gene" Briggs, superintendent of the educational service region; Madison County Sheriff John Maerz; Chris Costoff, Venice Township Chairman; Wood River Mayor William A. Magurany; Junior Melton, county board member; Nick Byrne, state's attorney; Fred Painter of the secretary of state's office; Louis Whitsett, supervisor of Nameoli Township; Jim McPike, candidate for state representative of the 56th district; Pop Marshall, state director of mutuals; Nick Hamilton, aide to State Rep. Joe Luoco; Floyd David Moss, president of the Pontoon Beach board; Roy Gaudette, committeeman; Circuit Judge Horace Calvo; John Kraynak, county clerk; and Miss Edna Holt, deputy county clerk.

CANDIDATES' HANDSHAKES are a tradition of such gatherings as this week's Madison County Democratic dinner, held at the Meridian Ballroom in the SIUE University Center. State Representative Joe E.

Devilish doings by the student body

"Could we please have the devil in the second row discuss the basic beliefs of Buddha?" "Would Mickey Mouse please give us the book report on 'Crime and Punishment'?" "May we have a report from 'the Ponz' in the back row on the basic principles of Jimmy Carter's foreign policy?"

These and similar questions may be expected today at Granite City High School North during "Mask Day" in which students may wear masks to school.

Teachers, already confused by talking to students' backs all day Tuesday, when students were allowed to wear their clothing backwards today face ghosts, skeletons, television heroes and Raggedy Ann as homecoming week activities continue at North.

6.8 per cent for construction wage settlements negotiated this year, it was noted. The extension becomes effective Aug. 1, 1977, for all the trades.

About 5,800 laborers are affected by the extension. Currently, they are paid $8.20 hourly, or $10.55 including fringe benefits. The latter figure is being increased 50 cents as of Aug. 1, 1977, a 4.74 per cent increase.

Tri-County Carpenters numbering 1,200 at present receive $10.85 an hour, or $12.05 including fringes. Their half-daily wage hike amounts to 4.16 per cent.

Iron Workers totaling 65 receive $11 hourly or $12.50 counting the cost of fringe benefits. The 50-cent boost, or 4.06 per cent.

The 280 Cement Masons are paid $10.75 or $11.45 including fringe costs. Their 50-cent hourly raise figures at 4.21 per cent.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS of the past and present are saluted at this week's annual John F. Kennedy memorial dinner given by the Madison County Democratic Central Committee. In the background are large pictures of two deceased Presidents, Harry S. Truman of Missouri and John F. Kennedy of

Bakalis backed by Federation

Michael Bakalis, Democratic candidate for state comptroller, has been praised by Robert Hresley, president of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, "for the outstanding service he has rendered to teachers and to the public schools of Illinois throughout his entire public career."

"Bakalis really cares about kids, about teachers, about schools," Hresley said. "He won a national reputation for involving persons from all parts of the state in the development of school policy when he was superintendent of public instruction."

Hresley said Bakalis played a leading role in reform of state school financing which led to the current school aid formula. "Despite our current problems, it is a vast improvement over past practice and one of the best in the country."

Hresley said Bakalis has "an outstanding record on collective bargaining for public employees, including teachers, and initiated it for his own employees when he was superintendent. The 50,000 teachers who are IFT members are confident that Bakalis will carry the same qualities of leadership and concern for the public into the office of comptroller and that is why we have endorsed him," Hresley said.

Voters urged to participate

With initial figures indicating the success of the State Board of Elections' voter registration drive, William L. Harris, board vice-chairman, has announced a continuation of the Board of Elections' efforts to combat voter apathy.

In thanking county clerks and local boards of election commissioners and their registrars for work they have done in their communities as regards registration of those eligible to vote, Harris issued a call for even greater efforts to be made to encourage voters to cast their ballots on election day.

"A recent study of the American electorate," Harris said, "estimates that more than 50 per cent of the Americans of voting age may stay away from the polls."

"The same study indicates that this number of silent voters could exceed 70,000,000."

"If such predictions turn out to be true," he continued, "it will be a tragic day in American history. We must remember that voting is both the foundation and guarantee of the freedom that we enjoy in this country."

"Registering voters is only the first step," Harris concluded. "Having encouraged voter registration, we are now stressing the importance of voting on Nov. 2, and hope to reach all Illinois voters before it's too late."

Removing temporary pupil data

In accordance with the district policies, all Granite City public schools are starting to remove temporary data from the records of students who are no longer enrolled in the Granite City schools.

This is to be completed by February 1977. No permanent records will be destroyed. Temporary records consist of information that is of educational value only until it has been superseded by later data or until the student is no longer in school.

"The purpose of this policy is to remove that information which is no longer relevant. This will not affect any service previously provided by the district," a spokesman said. "If you have questions about the data to be removed, you should contact the principal's office of your local school," he concluded.

Driver killed

Austin E. Riggs, 53, Collinsville, was injured fatally when his car went out of control and struck another car and then a bridge abutment on Route 157 a half-mile south of Route 162 near Glen Carbon at 7:50 p.m. Monday. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

The driver of the other car, Marilyn Schaefer, Evansville, Ill., said he drove off the road to avoid the oncoming Riggs car, but Mr. Schaefer's auto was struck on the left rear before Riggs' auto hit the abutment.

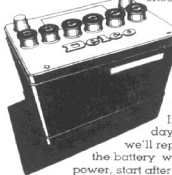

STEAL TELEVISION

A color television worth $800 was stolen from the home of Mrs. Alice Warren, Rural Route One, Box 1436, Granite City, early this week. Madison County sheriff's deputies were unable to determine how entry to the house was gained.

Gillhams

His first wife dying there, he again married, and moved to South Carolina.

He settled in what was then known as Pendleton County, since divided into the counties of Pickens and Henderson.

His family consisted of 11 children, seven sons and four daughters, namely: Charles, Ezekiel, Thomas, William, James, John, Isaac, Nancy, Mary, Sally and Susannah, and were Irish Presbyterians, though their descendants later were mostly Methodists.

He, his sons and sons-in-law all served in the war for Independence, during which two of his sons-in-law lost their lives, namely, John Davidson and James Kirkpatrick.

The first of the family that beheld the Illinois country was James, the fourth son of Thomas Gillham, in quest of his wife and children then held captive by the Indians in the summer of 1794.

When he recovered his family from the Indians he was so pleased with the prairies of Illinois and happy in the results of his long and dangerous search, that he wrote his relatives of his "grand discovery," requesting them to come.

Accordingly, Thomas, the third, and Isaac, the youngest of the sons of Thomas Gillham the first, left South Carolina in the fall and arrived at their journey's end on the last day of the eighteenth century. They rested quietly on Illinois soil on the first day of the nineteenth century.

Thus, they began the new century in a "new world." James was here, as before stated, and two others, John and William, arrived in 1802, both settling within the present boundaries of Madison County.

Charles, the first son, and his two eldest sisters remained in the Old South state.

Ezekiel, the second son, raised a large family, four of whom emigrated to Illinois, namely: Charles, Mary, Ruth and Margaret.

Charles, the son of Ezekiel, was the father of Mrs. Lucetta, wife of the late Hon. J. T. Lusk, and grandfather to Capt. G. C. Lusk and Mrs. Sarah Torrence, residing in Edwardsville, where they were born. Ezekiel was the grandfather of the late Thomas and Davidson Good.

Thomas Gillham, the oldest of the second family, married a Miss McDowd and raised three sons, Isaham, William and John T., and seven daughters, including Jane, Margaret, Sally, Violet, Patsy, and Nancy. Several of them either died young or never came to Illinois. Isaham, the oldest son, married Ruth Vaughn. Their children were Jonah K. Shadrach B., John, James Johnson and a daughter, Julia, all born and raised in Madison County.

Isaham first settled on a farm adjoining that of the late Samuel Judy, and, in April 1817 moved to the bank of the Mississippi River, nearly opposite the mouth of the Missouri.

He was sheriff of the county from 1812 to 1818.

William, the second son of Thomas Gillham Jr., married Mary Anderson and settled on a farm in Ridge prairie, five miles east of Edwardsville. Their children were Evaline, Cyrus, Isaham, Valuing and Orsman.

Violet married Joshua Vaughn and settled on the American Bottom near the bluff.

Patsy married Peter Hubbard and moved to Bond County. Agnes lived to be old and died single.

William, second son of Thomas Gillham, married Jane McDowd.

Their sons were John D., William and Ezekiel. Their daughters were Agnes, Sally, Mary, Margaret and Jane.

John D. lived in Jersey County; his sons, Marcus and Andrew, resided there.

William moved to Scott County. Ezekiel also lived in Jersey County, and was the grandfather of the Rev. John D. Gillham of Belleville.

Agnes married John G. Lofton, and was the mother of the Rev. Thomas G. Lofton, the former owner of the great Orchard farm, four miles north of St. Louis on the Alton road. John G. Lofton was one of the first judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Madison County. Sally married a Mr. Waddell and raised four sons, named Alexander, Thomas, Andrew and William.

After Mr. Waddell's death, she married a Mr. Jarvis, and was the mother of John Wesley and Fletcher Jarvis, and a daughter, Lucinda.

Although twice married afterward, she had no more family. She always resided in Madison County.

Jane, the youngest daughter, married William Davidson, and was the mother of T. Sidney, who lived near Venice, and Mr. Madison Davidson, who settled a farm near the residence of C. P. Smith in Fort Russell Township and died there in 1859 or 60.

Thomas Gillham, the third son of Thomas Gillham Sr., and Miss Ann Barnett, a sister of Capt. Barnett of Revolutionary fame, were married in South Carolina in 1770, and at the close of the war for Independence moved to Kentucky.

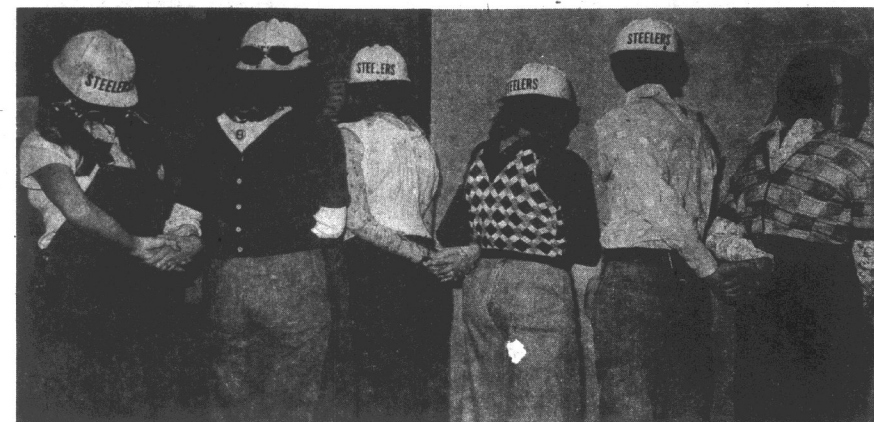

Their children were as follows: Samuel, Isaac, Jacob, Clemons, James, Harvey, David, Polly, Sally and Nancy. As before noted, Mr. Gillham first saw Illinois while in search of his captive family, and was so pleased with it that he determined to make it his future home. He did so from the summer of 1797, and in 1800 he settled in the American Bottom below St. Louis.

Other increases were to: Mary Kane, community development coordinator, $18,873 to $20,073; Dr. C. H. Rogers, animal control administrator and veterinarian, $18,913 to $20,113; Paul Hawkins, director of environmental control and building and zoning, $18,800 to $20,000.

Also, William Hellrung, data processing manager, $18,800 to $20,000; Ted Todoroff, civil defense coordinator, $14,355 to $15,555; Walter Straub, director of parks and recreation, $13,337 to $14,600; James Hyndman, assessments, was increased from $19,373 to $20,573; Dan Churovich, director of the Manpower program, was increased from $20,445 to $21,645; and Floyd Fisher, nursing home administrator, had his salary increased from $19,893 to $21,093.

A motion by Board member Daniel Partney of Granite City to have the county clerk write to the state representatives and senators from the area urging new legislation was approved. The letter is to request them to introduce a bill which would allow counties to change the manner in which it pays board members in 1978. Presently, law prohibits counties from changing the method of paying board members until the county is reappointed in 1980.

Partney said the bill still would leave it to the board to decide whether to retain the per diem and mileage method now, used to pay board members, or whether to convert to a flat salary, but that decision could be made in 1978, rather than waiting until 1980.

Board Member James Heif agreed with Partney, saying, "We have enough oppressive legislation and we should have the right to do it. Counties ought to have more rights to do what we want to do. Now we are told what to do and threatened."

The United States Senate and House have the right to decide how their members should be paid and we should have the same right as Congress," Heif concluded. Partney's motion passed on a 21-10 vote with Homer Boothman, Wayne Bridgewater, Michael Pellegrini and Ed Voumard voting against it.

GC women attend convention

Mrs. Carolyn Lemaster and Mrs. Mary Ann Walker of Granite City attended the fifth annual national leadership conference of "Stop ERA" held in St. Louis at the Marriott Hotel. There were approximately 200 women representing Stop ERA and Eagle Forum from 40 states.

Their purpose was to exchange ideas on how to fight the Equal Rights Amendment which has been ratified by 34 states. It is to become part of the United States Constitution, a states must ratify it before 1979. Of those states that have ratified ERA, two have rescinded — Nebraska and Tennessee. No state has ratified it this year, according to the local resident.

Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly, National Chairman of Stop ERA, told her supporters and the press that "People have recognized that the ERA will not give any rights to women, but will take away rights of the homemaker."

There were many workshops during the three-day convention, one of which was "How to Form an Eagle Forum Chapter." With a membership of 42,000 men and women, it is one of the fastest growing organizations in this country.

inspection by Building Inspector John Duko is still required along with a permit, but no fee will be charged.

Fifth Ward Alderman Donald Garrett acted as Mayor pro-tem at the Tuesday night council meeting.

The city was informed by a letter from National Grange Mutual Insurance Co. of Keene, N.H., that the workmen's compensation, general liability, and automobile policies will be cancelled. A notice of cancellation on insurance will be mailed in 45 days.

The letter reads in part: "The frequency of losses persists and the amounts of monies paid are running far ahead of even these debit rated premiums. Therefore, we will not be able to remain on the risk."

City Comptroller Al Hudzik was instructed by the council to advertise for bids as soon as possible.

It was noted by Second Ward Alderman Richard Kisser that between the time of receiving bids and obtaining new policies and the cancellation date, there could be a time when the city would be without insurance.

Belloff read a copy of a letter from the Illinois Department of Transportation that the Illinois Terminal Railroad that the state has approved and the railroad may proceed with the installation of flashing light signals at State Street where the ITRR tracks cross (near 14th Street).

The cost of the project is estimated at $10,749 with the city paying approximately $2,500 of the cost and the state and ITRR covering the other costs.

Third Ward Alderman Ronald Grzywacz said, "I would like, by next council meeting, some type of report on just how we need to go about forming a park district. Sam Dymas operated a tremendous ball program this summer and deserves a lot of credit because he donated a lot of his time. This program is going to mushroom and we need to be ready for it in addition to providing other services to the people under a park district."

A request from the fire department to send three men at $200 each to Rockton, Ill. for a firemen's conference caused much discussion among the aldermen.

It was pointed out by legal counsel and the city clerk that the fire department fund for conferences had been cut from the budget and the council could authorize the expenditure, unless it was budgeted.

Third Ward Alderman Ray Kozelak said, "We can amend the budget and use part of reserve sharing funds to pay the firemen. They do a lot for the city and we need to let them know we appreciate it. Let the legal counsel and the city comptroller get together and draw up a resolution or amendment. We'll find the money somewhere."

Considered Grzywacz said, "I agree with Ray. These men put their lives on the line for the people of Madison. The firemen are training their recruits at these meetings benefits the entire city."

First Ward Alderman Robert Don Reeves suggested the council send one fireman, causing more discussion.

At the suggestion of Second Ward Alderman Don Broyles, a compromise was reached and the council voted to send two firemen and allow the $200 expense money for each man.

Belloff reported that Fourth Ward Alderman Christ Coffey was presented a plaque Sunday by the Madison County Democratic committee at a dinner meeting of over 700 persons.

Belloff said that Alderman Coffey received the recognition for 40 years of service to the Democratic party, and got a standing ovation when the presentation was made.

Alderman Broyles raised a question about an after-hour book return that was not installed yet at the library and is "taking up a lot of room."

Frank Papa, administrative assistant to the mayor, assured the council that the street department will either have it installed or moved out of the way before the Nov. 2 election.

Building Inspector Duko said, "I want to thank the Press-Record for running the picture of me giving the Explorers an occupancy permit for their Haunted Castle at 1816 S. Main Ave. It brought attention to the fact that we do have such an ordinance and I was surprised at the number of people who said they did not realize such a thing as an occupancy permit had to be obtained in the city."

Series on non-sexist education

WSIE-FM (88.7), the radio station on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will examine non-sexist early childhood education on "All Things Considered" next week.

The six-part series will be broadcast daily at 4 p.m., beginning Oct. 25 and continuing through Oct. 30.

In the past decade, schools have received increasing criticism for perpetuating traditional sex-role patterns among young children. Textbooks and readers have drawn particular fire for portraying girls as "frilly little things" and boys as "strong and serious adventurers."

Although four-year-olds often bring sexist behavior to school with them, it is the teachers who must confront the task of changing these views, many contend. It is for this reason that the first national conference on non-sexist early childhood education was organized. The programs will include interviews with psychologists, educators, publishers and toy designers who attended the three-day conference.

North edges South 1-0 in field hockey

GCNH North defeated visiting GCNH South 1-0 Monday afternoon in the season's first meeting of the two schools in girls' field hockey competition. Playing 30-minute halves, South's squad dominated the first-half action, forcing North goalie Susan Bebold to stop five shots-on-goal. North's defense tightened in the second half, allowing South only one shot on goal.

The winning goal came with seven minutes remaining in the game when South committed a foul in its half of the field. Lee Ann Galbraith executed a corner play for North 10 yards from the goal post, passing to the mouth of the goal to Ramona Hefner, who slipped it in.

Construction peace assured in region by new contract

Announcement today of a construction work contract extension in this region is heartening news. Carpenters, laborers, iron workers and cement masons totaling 7,850 have agreed on new wage rates for the period of the extension, Aug. 1, 1977, to July 31, 1978.

The pact means that builders and their employees have arrived at mutually agreeable contract provisions. While the amount of the raise is below state and national averages on this year's construction wage settlements, both parties feel it will be beneficial.

It is essential that overall building costs remain competitive if the entire construction industry here is to avoid "pricing itself out of the market."

New homes and other structures are needed in this area and the pace of construction activity may well be accelerated by the amount of the settlement and by the relatively long-range stability that it assures.

The agreement is particularly timely in view of the many major improvement projects scheduled or proposed, the latter including new lock and dam facilities south of Alton and a regional airport at Columbia-Waterloo. If new sanitary sewers are approved and installed in the Quad Cities, extensive planning of new facilities is likely along Interstate 270, at the Tri-City Regional Port, near the Great River Road and at other locations.

Douglas viewed as a beacon for rededication to ideals

Press-Record Springfield Bureau — In the fall of 1968, a year and a half after he left his Senate seat in Washington, the late Paul Douglas gave this message to students at the 103rd annual convocation of Lincoln College:

"We should not be afraid of truth, for if recognized and acted upon, it is the rock upon which we can base our individual and collective lives."

These few words, perhaps more than any others, capture the essence and meaning of the life of Sen. Douglas, who died last month at the age of 84.

Douglas, who served for 18 years in the U.S. Senate until defeated by Sen. Charles Percy in 1966, was one of the most respected figures on Capitol Hill, battling often for causes considered ahead of their time, but always guided by what he believed to be right and true.

Among his major contributions was the saving of 7,000 acres of the Indiana Dunes, now a national lake shore. When powerful companies wanted to industrialize the Dunes area, Douglas fought tenaciously to preserve its unique environment for future generations.

He was the author of the Truth-Lending Act, passed after he left office. The act provides for uniform disclosure of finance charges which we now accept as a fact of life.

After he left the Senate, Douglas' capability continued to be recognized. He was appointed chairman of the President's Commission on Urban Problems, a position he held for two years.

Although suffering three strokes in later years, he maintained his strong interest and concern for those causes that had occupied his attention in the Senate: civil rights, the elderly, unemployment protection, low-cost housing and tax reform.

Sen. Paul Douglas long will be remembered for his devotion to the principles of democratic government, and the needs of people.

At a time when honesty, openness and truth in political life have become somewhat neglected, Sen. Douglas remains a beacon for those striving for a return to the ideals this nation was founded upon.

Eagleton hints he may try to tinker with Bill of Rights

Editor and Publisher Magazine — U.S. Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri made some ominous comments recently to a meeting of the Postal Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

"I think many nations in Europe, the United States government has always dealt with the various segments of the communications industry on an individual basis."

"There has been no central planning or administration to encompass mail delivery, telephone service, broadcasting, electronic data transmission, cable television and the print media."

He pointed out that next year all of these communications issues will be separately considered by various Congressional committees. As a result, he foresaw a "reconstruction of the government that all of these questions are components of just one issue—communications."

"It is the beginning of what I predict will be an effort by the government to restructure itself to deal with all facets of communications in a comprehensive and organized way."

"If the government does restructure itself, the public policy controlling newspapers and magazines will not be immune from reconsideration."

Certainly, mail delivery, telephone service, broadcasting and cable television may come under the purview of Congressional committees for various reasons. But what Congressional committee is going to consider "central planning or administration" of print media? And how is that to be done?

What is "the public policy controlling newspapers and magazines?"

If the senator is talking about print media access and handling by the Postal Service, that is one thing. But, then, why include broadcasting in the discussion?

The words "planning," "administration," "controlling" when used in connection with "print media" are frightening. It sounds like someone wants to rewrite, or least tinker with, the First Amendment.

2-year planning for fence at South

To the Editor:

Our fence project was a long time in the planning and took the cooperation and help of many Granite Cityans.

Has everyone in Granite City noticed the new fence around the football and soccer fields at South High?

This sports complex project was undertaken more than two years ago by the Warrior Boosters.

The first thing to appear was the kickboard, followed by a donated scoreboard.

With the help of the School Board, Principal Dumont, Athletic Director Fedora, Ron Landman, Harold Brown, Warrior Boosters, coaches, parents and athletes — and with the permission of the involved unions — our fence was completed.

The Warrior Boosters have been voicing a hearty thanks to all involved.

Latin background is useful to many

To the Editor:

I am in complete agreement with the letter that appeared in the paper on Oct. 4 on the subject of Latin.

In my opinion, Latin is the most important language for the college preparatory student. In addition to a thorough grounding in English.

A day rarely passes that I do not depend upon my Latin background to help define a word, use the correct verb form, know an infinitive from an indirect object, and so on.

The children in my classes have become more aware of verb tenses, regular and irregular adjectives, and the subjunctive mood. They learned these so well through Latin.

I am not denigrating foreign languages. If a student has a basic grounding in Latin, most European languages, including English, are much more easily learned.

College-bound students need Latin.

Physicians, pharmacists, musicians, teachers, attorneys and journalists are only a few of the professionals that use the classical language of Latin on a daily basis.

Let's keep Latin in our public schools and inform the high school of its importance.

"Four of my children have had Latin, and they all appreciate its usefulness."

In another eight years, I hope my youngest will have the opportunity to choose Latin as a "must" subject at Granite High South.

Price experienced congressman

CONG. MELVIN PRICE

the Army during World War II. Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee for the past two years, he is past chairman and current vice chairman of the House-Senate Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

Before advancing to the top Armed Services post, Cong. Price also was chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct and also chairman of the Research and Development Committee of the House Armed Services Committee.

Dean of the 24-member Illinois congressional delegation, Price is a native East St. Louisan.

He attended parochial schools there and took evening courses at Loyola University High School and St. Louis University. A newspaper reporter before being elected to the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, Price was secretary to the late Cong. Edwin M. Schaefer before entering military service.

One of the most knowledgeable legislators in the fields of military defense and nuclear power, he also ranks among the leaders in average vote margin by which he achieves re-election.

Cong. Price comments that "defense has always been one of our major priorities, but it is not the only area."

"The main priority is the economic situation of the country."

Acknowledging that Congress has trimmed the Department of Defense budget, he says, "We haven't made any reduction in the last several years that was so drastic that we couldn't overcome it if something happened" and the nation had to go to war.

Cong. Price is given considerable credit for the major role of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, Price was secretary to the late Cong. Edwin M. Schaefer before entering military service.

cooperating in a study of whether a portion of the military base here could be converted to private use by light industry.

An advocate of a new metropolitan area airport at Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., Cong. Price backs replacement of the present Alton Locks and Dam No. 26 on the Mississippi River.

In addition to his demanding schedule in Washington, Cong. Price returns to the 23rd District often and is regarded as prompt in responding to problems and requests from local citizens, groups and firms.

The only remaining charter member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, he has participated in many research programs and conducted numerous hearings in the nuclear field over a long period of years.

For more than 30 years, the committee has fostered and promoted development of nuclear power as a safe, economical and reliable energy source.

Price actively supports development of Illinois coal resources, and has pushed successfully for Downstate Illinois coal gasification pilot plants.

In remarks this week at the 1976 annual dinner of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee, the veteran congressman cited as campaign issues "inflation, unemployment and our position as a world leader."

He added, "Average earning power is lower today than at the end of the Kennedy-Johnson era."

"We need to create jobs, not veto them; $16 million in tax revenue is lost for each percentage point of unemployment, and that is a lot of money."

"A Democratic victory won't solve our problems overnight, but it will get us back on the right track."

"Democrats stand for the people, and the people want Jimmy Carter in the White House and Mike Howlett in the governor's mansion."

Record challenged by Drenovac

SAM DRENOVAC

County. Drenovac attended the University of Illinois.

"He served in the South Pacific in a U.S. Coast Guard amphibious unit and is a member of the Hartford American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

A resident of Chouteau Township, Drenovac describes himself as a farmer and businessman, having operated a restaurant and service station. He previously ran for office four times as a Democrat, including attempts to gain election as a state representative and state senator.

Picturing himself as a man "not afraid to vote" to the "great foreign giveaway," Drenovac stresses that he is "dedicated to human rights instead of government rights."

"I will work with labor and industry to bring jobs and prosperity to our own, immediate area. Like the Romans did, we have taxed and spent ourselves to the brink of disaster."

Giant government, getting bigger at each election, is the root problem with our economy. "It's time to get rid of the Environmental Protection Agency; it is not needed."

In the belief they "keep a lot of good people from running for office," he would strive to place the "Supreme Court under the Constitution, not above it."

He is for the right to bear arms but wants tougher, mandatory sentences on felonies committed with firearms.

"The government has nothing to share, unless it takes from the people. Federal revenue bringing has brought us busing, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, Economic Opportunity Commission, etc."

"Unshackled, the free enterprise system can end the energy crisis and all other crises brought on by the awesome power of too much government."

Drenovac concludes, "It is a shame the illusion voters live under. Our congressman has voted for every foreign aid program since World War II. The wealth of the American people has gone down the drain behind the Iron Curtain and in underdeveloped countries."

"While the Americans were dying in Vietnam and the Soviets supplied munitions to the Viet Cong, the U.S. worked with the Russian army building a highway across Asia."

"In 1972, he voted to sell wheat to the Russians below market price and then voted to pay the shipping costs."

"He voted to allow funds to continue negotiations for surrender of U.S. treaty rights in the Canal Zone. Americans want to give the Panama Canal away. This would put Midwestern farmers out of Pacific markets and restrict oil shipments from Alaska."

"Cong. Price voted to eliminate silver, which was the American people's wealth, in currency and which they held in their pockets as personal wealth."

"There is much to be thankful for in this country, but one can't close his eyes to the slums, public and private debt, inflation, confiscatory taxation, unemployment, pollution, crime, economic ignorance, turned out of our schools and colleges, loss of markets and prestige, bankrupt cities, financially broken states, postal deficit, grain scandal, oil shoggers' fight over the future of Social Security, the Penn Central fiasco and the rise in welfare costs."

O'Neal runs with Thompson

DAVE O'NEAL

Dave O'Neal, who defeated Mrs. Joan G. Anderson in the Republican primary, is that party's lieutenant governor nominee Nov. 2.

His name is in the voting machine square also listing James R. Thompson, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois.

Currently St. Clair County sheriff, the Belleville resident, 39, believes he lends geographic balance to the state ticket.

He is regarded as an effective campaigner, having won twice as sheriff in Democratic-prone St. Clair County.

A licensed pharmacist and real estate broker, O'Neal regards himself as an administrative ability, hard work, integrity and extensive knowledge of the criminal justice system and municipal and county government.

He says he would be "devil's advocate" to the governor, but express his views privately.

He would serve as an assistant to the governor and avoid antagonistic relationships, he adds.

"The record established by the governor, ultimately becomes that of the lieutenant governor because they run as a team. But the dominant figure in that partnership has got to be the governor," O'Neal comments.

He said his candidacy offers administrative ability, hard work, integrity and extensive knowledge of the criminal justice system and municipal and county government.

Born in Belleville, he is a graduate of St. Louis College of Pharmacy and formerly operated the Western Pharmacy in Belleville.

O'Neal is vice president of H&D Land Corp. and a partner in Walto Associated, a real estate holding firm.

He was named outstanding young Republican of Illinois in 1971 and an outstanding young Republican of the nation in 1975.

Elected as sheriff in 1970 and 1974, O'Neal claims to have saved St. Clair County more than $100,000 in 1972 through administrative procedures deemed more efficient than those of his predecessors.

Included were a merit hiring system and efforts to obtain increased state and federal law enforcement assistance grants.

An energetic campaigner, he has assailed what he views as abuses of power stemming from Democratic domination of county offices in his county.

O'Neal contends that election of the Howlett-Hartigan ticket would lead to domination of the state by the political organization of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

Hartigan seeking re-election

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR NEIL F. HARTIGAN

Howlett, present secretary of state for Illinois.

Hartigan was one of 200 Americans chosen by Time magazine as destined to provide "a new generation of leadership."

He has been elected as chairman of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors.

Hartigan is credited with spearheading efforts for: Sales tax relief for 900,000 elderly and handicapped.

—The first cabinet-level state Department on Aging in the U.S.

—Restoring cuts in the mental health budget and restructuring the Department of Mental Health and Development Disabilities.

—Developing an energy policy for Illinois.

—Reform of the Illinois State Fair.

Securing a $1.5 million coal research center at SIU in Carbondale.

—A safe, economically feasible and environmentally acceptable new airport for the St. Louis and nearby Illinois region.

—Abandoned mines reclamation.

—Student representation on state college and university boards.

—Restoring funds for the arts.

—Reducing "red tape" as ombudsman for unemployed elderly and mentally ill.

Before being elected to state office, Hartigan was general attorney for the Chicago Park District.

He attended high school at Loyola Academy and received a bachelor of science degree in social sciences from Georgetown University. He holds a law degree from Loyola University.

Hartigan had varied responsibilities in government during the 1960s and early 1970s, including legislation, public health, public safety, licensing, contracts, personnel administration and public use of recreation facilities.

As chief legal counsel for the park district, he initiated a land acquisition program, which netted 52 new parks for the Chicago area and developed a program to acquire 150 more.

Hartigan initiated an examination of all firms with which the district did business to see if any had organized labor affiliations.

He was responsible for creation of the park district's first Federal Aid Division, which processed over $3 million in applications for financial assistance.

Hartigan's municipal experience included 4½ years as administrative assistant to Mayor Richard Daley, administrative assistant to the Chicago health commissioner and attorney for the Chicago Board of Health.

He served as legislative counsel for the City of Chicago during the 76th Illinois General Assembly in Springfield and as legislative counsel working on problems for the Chicago Park District and Museums.

In 1970, Hartigan was appointed to the Lake Michigan and Adjoining Lands Study Commission by the speaker of Illinois' House of Representatives. The commission was established to recommend new environmental protection legislation.

As a Democratic committeeman, he is credited with establishment of a facility for mentally handicapped children in a park in the Rogers Park-Edgewater area and a plan for comprehensive lighting of all parks and beaches.

Hartigan resides in Chicago with his wife, Marge, and their four children.

Hartigan has sought to familiarize himself with the needs of all geographic areas of Illinois.

He is credited with an unusually active and effective record as lieutenant governor despite the handicap of serving with a governor who had been elected to office by the political organization of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago.

Tips for Halloween

With Halloween approaching, Celia Maloney, Illinois Consumer Advocate, advises parents of the following tips for a safe day:

Check with your police department for curfew in your area.

Do not allow your children to go trick or treating alone. Children under seven years old should be accompanied by an adult. Children over seven should go with at least one other friend.

Your children should be advised of their geographical limits. It's best for them to stay in their own neighborhood.

Make sure your children are reminded to be careful when crossing streets. Also, tell them not to dash out between parked cars.

Halloween costumes should not obstruct their vision or hamper their movement. Costumes should be made of non-flammable material.

Make sure your children can be seen after dark. It's a good idea to have them carry a flashlight.

Have your children check back with you during the day so you know where they are.

Do not allow your children to carry a candle or flame of any type.

Be sure and inspect all of their treats. Do not allow them to eat any of it without your authorization. Unless you know the donor, don't allow your children to eat homemade food or food that is questionably wrapped.

Motorists should also be especially careful during Halloween activities Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 30 and 31.

Make Halloween a fun day for your family by making sure it's safe for them.

Lucco, McPike are Democratic nominees for Illinois House seats

Top vote-getter for a 56th District seat in the House of Representatives in March, Rep. Joe E. Lucco seeks re-election as a legislator Nov. 2.

There are two Democrats and two Republicans on the general election ballot for Illinois House seats in this district. Three state representatives are to be chosen.

Lucco represents most of Madison County and also Canteen Township in St. Clair County.

"He is recognized by most of his colleagues in the House as one of the most forceful and influential first-term members to come to the House in many years. He established himself early as an articulate and persuasive speaker on the House floor," a campaign spokesman has commented.

Rep. Lucco was appointed by House Speaker William Redmond to the Committees on Elementary-Secondary Education, Higher Education and County and Township.

He also was appointed as member of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission and had a part in the assigning of the Coal-Con plant, to be built at Athens.

He also worked for a coal fluidization plant sought for the East Alton-Wood River area.

He was co-sponsor with Rep. Katz of House Bill 911 which designated 911 as the emergency phone number to call if it is to become statewide.

Lucco co-sponsored a new safety bill for coal miners and was instrumental in passing the bill.

Rep. Lucco comments, "I

REP. JOE E. LUCCO

hope to help the local economy by the creation of jobs. I am working on abolishment of the property tax as a source of revenue for schools.

"I am hopeful of helping those people who are in need of emergency assistance, and to better supervise the public aid program to limit expenditures to those in real need. I am an advocate of jobs instead of direct financial grants."

Lucco is a full-time legislator and has a full-time office at 109 Purcell St., Edwardsville.

He is a former Edwardsville teacher, coach and school administrator and served on the staff of the Madison County Educational Service Region.

He and his wife have a daughter who is active in school programs in Evanston and a son who is a lawyer in Texas.

A native of Pocahontas, Lucco is a graduate of Greenville College and holds a master degree from the University of Illinois, majoring in history, economics and political science.

He has been active in the Democratic party since 1934.

He was president of the Young Democratic Club in 1938 but never ran for an elective office until the 1974 primary. He was an educator 40 years.

Rep. Lucco has taken stands opposing gun control, the property tax concept and present safety-health law administration.

He favors directing present lottery receipts to the funding of schools, and favors restoration of the death penalty for some crimes.

Jim McPike, 33, Alton, winner of one of two Democratic nominations in March for state representative, is favored to be elected to that office Nov. 2.

A 3M Company sales engineer, he has pledged to be a full-time legislator.

He was prompted to seek public office because of interest in the American system of government.

McPike says, "The lack of trust in public officials, which culminated with the resignation of former President Nixon," brought him into the political arena.

"You cannot restore this lost faith by concentrating strictly on the Presidency. You build trust by electing dedicated people at every level of government."

"People deserve a legislator highly qualified, sensitive to their wants and responsive to their needs."

The candidate is the son of John H. McPike of Alton, secretary-treasurer of Carpenters' Local 1098.

McPike is married and has three school-aged children attending Alton public schools.

In 1965, he graduated with a bachelor's degree in engineering from the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and in 1970 added a bachelor's degree in general business from the University of Jacksonville, Jacksonville, Fla.

McPike earned a master's degree in economics from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

He served as an officer and jet pilot in the Navy from 1965 to 1970.

McPike lists his 1975 personal income as $21,369 and his net worth as $33,366. He has called for all officials and candidates to disclose such information about themselves.

He cites extensive labor backing, including the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Illinois Education Association and 23rd District AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education.

The candidate points to his business experience, education, labor contacts and service as a Naval officer as giving him broad qualifications to serve well in the General Assembly.

McPike favors the proposed Columbia-Waterloo airport, full school funding, Alton locks and dam replacement, a civic center at SIUE and designation of two separate Southern Illinois Universities.

He has called for increased attention to senior citizens, including state funding of community centers serving the aged. He proposes WPA-type government programs to increase the employment level.

Position papers issued during his campaign urge legalization of beer for college campuses, federal income tax reform, upgrading of legislative ethics, and government action to minimize fluctuations in retail food prices.

During the fall campaign, McPike has voiced "shock at today's accepted level of unemployment."

Regarding crime, he says, "We must protect the peaceful from the ravages of a violent minority. We will work for speedy trials, determinate sentences, reform of prison systems and parole practices, and no parole sentences for use of firearms in committing felonies."

McPike proposes legislation to require complete income disclosure by legislators.

He would promote state funding of senior citizen centers and would vote for full funding of schools by the state, rather than utilizing real estate taxes.

Ozone level dropping

Dr. Richard Briceland, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, has announced that the agency is discontinuing its daily summary of ozone levels in the state until the levels begin to rise again next summer.

The daily summary listed the high ozone levels of the day for the 28 monitoring stations in the state. The summary served as an advisory notice for susceptible citizens in those communities that reached high ozone levels.

"The daily ozone summary will begin again next year at the beginning of the ozone season May 1. Ozone levels should remain low until that time because of cooler weather and shorter days."

"Should ozone levels reach advisory levels between Oct. 15 and May 1, a special advisory will be issued for the affected area," Dr. Briceland said.

"Overall, the ozone levels in the state have decreased slightly from last year. This may be due to reduced automobile and industry emissions or it may be attributable to different meteorological conditions this year from last."

"We are presently working on the data from the entire ozone season to determine if there is any significance to the downward trend," Dr. Briceland said.

More ozone advisories were issued for Wood River this year than any other monitoring site in the state.

Wood River reached or surpassed the 70 parts per billion level 52 days between May 1 and Oct. 15. Quincy was second with 34 days. The City of Chicago reached advisory levels 29 days.

Five ozone yellow alerts were issued this year, the same number as last year. Three of the alerts were declared for the upper half of Madison County (not including the Quad-Cities); one for the City of Chicago; and one for Watkegan in Lake County.

Ozone yellow alerts are declared when ozone levels reach 170 ppb for a one-hour period and when those levels are expected to recur the following day.

The highest ozone level in the state this year was recorded at the Waukegan monitoring site. It reached 245 ppb on Aug. 21. The second highest reading, 202, was reached at Kenwood High School in Chicago.

The 1975 high, 233 ppb, was recorded in Chicago at Kenwood High.

Volare

Announcing the small car with the Accent on Comfort.C'mon in and test drive the small car with comfort and more.

You won't believe how comfortable and smooth this car rides until you drive it yourself. Because of a special suspension, Volare is one small car that has a ride like a big car.

Volare even gives you lots of room to be comfortable. In fact, Volare Sedan has more room than any other American compact in its class.
And the same holds true for Volare Wagon.

Stop in and see the good-looking
'77 Volare Coupe, Sedan and Wagon. You'll find the price on Volare, whether you're buying or leasing, is pretty comfortable, too.

MR. AND MRS. W. DUANE SMALLIE whose wedding was solemnized at the First Assembly of God Church. A daughter of the bride is the former Elaine M. Litzelman.

Elaine M. Litzelman wed in candlelight ceremony

Burning tapers in branched candelabra, festooned with blue ribbon and blue baby's breath, illuminated the sanctuary of the First Assembly of God Church for the wedding on Sept. 18 of Miss Elaine M. Litzelman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Litzelman, 2221 Clinton Drive and W. Duane Smallie, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Smallie, 2311 Wabash Ave.

White re-embroidered V-neck and Venice lace inserted with narrow blue ribbon trimmed the short puff sleeves and high neckline of the organza gown worn by the bride.

The decorative lace trim was repeated on the bodice, the Empire waistline and formed vertical designs on the A-line skirt which extended into a chapel train.

She wore a white ripple brim hat enhanced with blue and blue ribbons and she carried an arrangement of blue roses, white stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Francene Litzelman, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and was dressed in a hyacinth blue double knit gown with matching cape.

Another sister, Miss Cynthia Litzelman, served as bridesmaid and chose a royal blue dress identical to the honor attendant.

Both held bouquets of variegated blue carnations and white baby's breath.

Kimberly Mercer, a cousin of the groom, wore an ivory gown with matching lace and blue ribbon trim complemented with a bonnet of the same fabric. She held an ivory basket filled with blue and white rose petals.

A recent warning by the State Board of Elections to those political committees which had not filed under the Illinois Campaign Financing Act has resulted in a nearly 100 per cent positive response.

Franklin J. Lunding Jr., chairman of the board, announced that of the 54 delinquent committees, 52 reported immediately and the remaining two committees explained their failure to report.

Lunding's warning to the late filing committees carried notice that penalties for non-compliance included contempt of court and up to six months in jail.

"In the cases of the two committees which did not comply," Lunding said, "the cause given was illness."

Lunding explained, however, that the board is entering an order against the two to ensure proper compliance with the law.

The two committees being subjected to court order are the Voters for Quality Judges and Edmund A. Godula, and the 28th Ward Regular Democratic Organization and William Caruthers.

Under the 1974 Campaign Financing Act, all candidates or committees organized for their behalf which have raised or spent in excess of $1,000 are required to file annual reports with the state, outlining all expenditures and all con-Lunding also pointed out that a 30-day filing from Illinois committees was due Oct. 18.

"The latest is an extremely important filing by political committees," he said, "because it contains information relating to the current campaign."

"We will check all files by Oct. 22, and all those committees which have not filed will be ordered to a public hearing on Oct. 29."

The Rev. James M. Wall of Elmhurst, the Jimmy Carter for Illinois, will be the principal speaker at a Democratic rally Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Edwardsville, at 7:30 p.m. The rally is sponsored by the Edwardsville Township Democratic Club and Edwardsville Township Democratic Committee. Raises matching price increases

Average (median) usual weekly earnings of persons working full time in wage and salary jobs were $197 in May 1976, up $12 or 6.5 per cent from May 1975, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics says in a newly-issued yearly comparison.

Since consumer prices rose at about the same pace over this period, the purchasing power of full-time wage and salary workers remained essentially unchanged from May 1975 to May 1976, the BLS noted.

Relative to 1975, the first year in which these data were collected, the real weekly earnings average for all full-time workers has risen 5.5 per cent, with larger gains shown by adult worker groups such as household heads.

However, the real weekly earnings for most groups, of workers were lower in May 1976 than the peaks to which they had risen by 1973.

The bureau's analysis, based on data collected each May through the Current Population Survey, shows that wide differences in both the levels and trends of the weekly earnings averages (medians) of the various labor force groups continue. The principal findings are:

Male household heads working full time were reported as earning an average of $245 a week in May 1976, or $14 more than a year earlier.

The $14 increase in weekly earnings was slightly lower than the 1975 peak but still 10 per cent above the 1967 mark.

The median weekly earnings of wives employed full time rose from $139 to $147 over the same period; their real earnings were also unchanged over the year.

For females who head households and work full time, median weekly earnings were $156, or $7 more than the median in May 1975. In real terms, their earnings were slightly lower than a year earlier but still 14 per cent higher than in 1967.

The median earnings of men who work full time were $234 compared with $145 for women in full-time jobs. Between May 1975 and May 1976, weekly earnings for both men and women increased at similar rates.

During the 1967 to 1976 period, there has been little change in the earnings differential existing between men and women who work full time. In 1967, women earned roughly 62 per cent as much as men, and in 1976 the same percentage.

Median weekly earnings of white full-time workers topped the $200 mark in May 1976, while the earnings of black full-time workers moved up to $162.

Although over the past year the increase in earnings was

Howlett alleges road 'flip-flop'

The Democratic candidate for governor, Michael J. Howlett, has blasted his Republican opponent, James R. Thompson, for an alleged "classic flip-flop" in supporting two highway projects he had earlier accused Howlett of being irresponsible in supporting.

Howlett said, "For the past three weeks, my Republican opponent has criticized my proposals to begin four state highways, including the route from Quincy to Springfield and the Chicago-to-Quincy-to-Kansas City expressway.

"He said I was 'irresponsible' for promising to build those two roads, and that I would 'bankrupt the state' if I did or 'our politics' if I didn't. The only responsible way to campaign, he said, was to follow him and promise not to make promises.

"Guess what? He flew into Quincy and promised to build those two roads.

"What made him suddenly see the light and change his mind?

"The answer is obvious. His polling firm took a poll in Quincy and found that his position was not popular there. So he made a U-turn," Howlett charged.

"Recent polls published in the area show him doing less well than the Republican candidate in 1972.

"Apparently, during the last three weeks, he's done some hasty research and discovered that we can afford the highways after all.

"Now he says he's learned belatedly what those of us who are familiar with state government knew all along — that the federal government pays most of the cost.

"For the sake of political expediency, my opponent broke

Circuit assembly

Paul Scaglione, presiding overseer of the Granite City congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, has announced that approximately 1,100 Jehovah's Witnesses in the surrounding area will be holding their semi-annual circuit assembly this fall in their newly-renovated assembly hall at Larimore and Laredo roads in north St. Louis County.

The assembly will take place Saturday and Sunday and will provide all those attending with Scriptural information based on

Romans 12:1, 2 with a theme of "Rendering 'Sacred Service' With Your Power of Reason."

Main speaker will be Gerald D. Grizzle, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York. The keynote talk, "Keep Seeking God's Kingdom," will be given Sunday at 2 p.m. by Grizzle.

One of the highlights of the assembly will be baptism of a number of people associated with Jehovah's Witnesses.

The two-day event will begin Saturday at 9:50 a.m.

"Up to now, an East Coast advertising agency has been running his campaign. Now it appears that a polling firm has taken over.

"I think voters want plain talk, candidates who level with them, and common sense. They don't want candidates programmed by polls who dodge issues with no-promise pledges.

"My opponent has taken the right position — at last. But he did it for the wrong reason," Howlett concluded.

President Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter are being asked what they would do to stabilize the economic shift from industrial states to the sun belt, a trend attributed in part to federal programs and policies.

The call for a response by Oct. 29 was also made to two other Presidential candidates, Lester Maddox and Eugene McCarthy, by a bloc of 200 congressmen.

The bloc, called the "Northeast-Midwest Economic Advancement Coalition," was organized last month to get more federal funding for economically-declining industrial states.

In a letter to the candidates made public last week, the Coalition says the economic

Executor's role is often misunderstood

One of the most misunderstood aspects of wills is the role of an executor. And this, says the Illinois State Bar Association, can be cleared up easily.

Simply put, the ISBA says, an executor is the financial manager and decision-maker of the estate of the decedent.

One area of confusion lies in the difference between an administrator and an executor under a will.

Their roles are virtually identical, the sole difference being the fact that an executor is named by the person making the will, while an administrator is named by the court when a person dies without having written a will, or without naming an executor, or when the named executor cannot act.

Ordinarily, an executor receives a fee for serving, although this can be waived. In some situations, it may be beneficial to waive the fees when the executor is a beneficiary of the estate. This is because the executor's fees are considered ordinary income and subject to federal income tax, while inheritance is not subject to federal income tax. The attorney may also suggest—at the time the will is being prepared—waiving the requirement that the executor be bonded.

Bonding is necessary in many cases, but generally not when the sole beneficiary is named as executor. In that case, says the ISBA, it's merely an additional expense.

The ISBA also recommends that contingent executors be named in the event that the first named executor should die or be unable to act before the estate is settled.

This would provide an orderly transition without having to go into court to ask that an administrator be named.

Of course, a person named as executor is not obligated to serve in that capacity, so it is a good idea to be sure to have the permission of the proposed executor before adding his name to the will.

Banks also serve as executors in some cases, although banks may not be desirable when there is a small estate.

Thus, knowing what the executor of a will is—and some of the finer points in naming a person to serve in that capacity—can smooth the transition period in settling an estate, and it can save money in the long run, the Bar Association concludes.

Dunham Fund property sale

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees has voted to offer three residential properties in East St. Louis for sale to the Dunham Fund for Research and Development of Cultural Arts, a not-for-profit corporation.

The acting president of SIUE was authorized by the board to sell the properties, located at 526, 530 and 532 N. 10th St., at the appraised fair market value. The action is subject to the approval of appropriate state property control agencies.

University officials said the properties, acquired by the university during 1963 and 1964, have been used only intermittently since their acquisition.

Trustees were told that the Dunham Fund desires to purchase the properties in order to further the educational and cultural arts purposes of the corporation. University officials said they are in agreement that sale of the properties to the Dunham Fund would be of mutual benefit.

Estimated costs to rehabilitate the properties for university use were said to be $100,000. Costs to maintain and secure the properties in relation to their use were said to be $20,000. That disposition of the properties is a desirable course of action, officials said.

Wheat variety plots planted

By RON HINES
Agricultural Advisor

The 1976-77 winter wheat variety plots for Madison County were planted on Oct. 9. The plots are located on the north side of Rt. 22, 1 1/2 miles west of Rt. 139 near Moro in Moro Township.

Bill Dorsey, operator of the farm, and his son-in-law, Sonny Cooper, both of Route One Moro, conducted the planting operation.

There are 14 winter wheat varieties at the location. The varieties include Trisan, Gage, Centurk and Parker, all hard red winter wheats. Oasis, Argee, Hart, Arthur 71, Blueboy II, Beau, Abe, Arthur, Stoddard, and Double Crop, all soft red winter wheat varieties.

The varieties are located in the plots in the same order as they are listed in this article. The plots begin with Trisan on the west and end with Double Crop on the east.

Four new soft red winter wheat varieties are being introduced to Madison County farmers this year in the wheat variety plots.

The four new varieties include: Argee, Hart, Beau and Stoddard.

Hart was released jointly by the University of Missouri and Penn State University. It is a bearded soft red winter wheat variety which matures about two days later than Arthur. It has good resistance to powdery mildew, septoria, stem rust and leaf rust. It is susceptible to the Hessian fly races that are common in Illinois.

Beau was developed at Purdue University. Foundation seed will be released to certified seed growers this fall. Resistant to Hessian fly, septoria and powdery mildew, it matures on day later than Arthur and is two inches shorter in height. Its lodging resistance is excellent.

Stoddard was developed at the University of Missouri and released in 1973. Stoddard is about two days later than Arthur in maturity and three to four inches taller. It is comparable to Arthur in lodging resistance. It has good resistance to leaf rust. It is moderately susceptible to soil borne mosaic and is susceptible to stem rust. Hessian fly and septoria.

Argee is the newest variety in the plots. Released from the University of Wisconsin, it is another bearded soft red winter wheat variety. It matures about one week after Arthur and is not recommended for double cropping because of its late maturity.

Although no yields are available on Argee or Beau, Hart and Stoddard both yielded 56 bu.-acre at the Brownstown Experiment Station in 1976. These yields are in comparison to a 53 bu.-acre yield by Arthur at the same location.
